

after this Article becomes effective shall thereafter be serviced and redeemed by payments from the general funds of the City, including the water revenues. It is the intent and purpose of this sub-section to require that water revenues shall become part of the general funds of the City when the bonded indebtedness to which they are pledged at the time this Article becomes effective has been fully retired and liquidated.

155. EXCESS WATER. (a) The Mayor and City Council also may sell excess water, at such price as it shall deem proper, without regard to its capital and interest requirements or to its maintenance costs, to the end that excess water shall not be wasted, and that the City shall derive some compensation therefor. No water shall be sold as excess water for less than the actual cost of filtration and other treatment.

(b) Excess water shall be that amount of water which is in storage in the impounding dams above the pumping level as shall be in excess of an amount equal to two hundred times the average amount of water then being delivered to the regular water takers for their daily consumption. When the water so held in the impounding dams shall not be in excess of this amount, no water shall be sold as excess water.

(c) No excess water shall be sold to any person, firm or corporation for other than manufacturing or industrial purposes, or when the use of such excess water would diminish the amount of water then being furnished to such person, firm or corporation under the regular established rates of the City. In case of a sale of excess water to a non-user of water under said regular established rates, such excess water shall not be sold in an amount less than four hundred thousand gallons per twenty-four hour period, and all of it must be used for manufacturing and industrial purposes, except in case of shut down, strike, act of God, or other emergency; and in like manner the City may discontinue the sale of excess water so long as any such emergency may exist. In the sale of excess water the Mayor and City Council shall reserve the right to apportion the supply of such excess water among the eligible applicants who may apply for the same; and the Mayor and City Council may stipulate such other conditions to the sale as may seem reasonable and proper for the protection of the interests of the City.

156. OUTSIDE SALES. The City may sell water outside the limits of the City, to ordinary domestic and commercial consumers, subject to whatever rates and conditions may be set by the Mayor and City Council, except that no such water
