Construction of road.

SEC. 9. And be it enacted, That the said company are hereby invested with all the powers and authority necessary for the construction of a turnpike road between the termini mentioned in the first section of this act, to be constructed of such materials as the president and board of managers, chosen under the provisions of this act, shall direct, which road shall be of the width of sixty-six feet, of which at least eighteen feet shall be composed of broken stone, gravel or other hard substance, with good and sufficient bridges over any stream crossing the same, and in order that the route or intended course of said road may be known to all concerned with as much precision as possible; Be it further enacted, That said road shall commence, as aforesaid, at the present northern termination of Charles street, and shall run thence in a direct line with said street, extended in a direction about due north until it reaches or approximates the northern outline of a farm in said county, known as Clover Hill, the property of Joseph Merryman and others, thence diverging to the west or northwest in a line parallel with the dividing line between said farm and the land of the late General — McDonald, it shall pursue the last named course until it crosses or passes near the extreme southwestern corner of said General — McDonald's land, thence resuming its northern direction, or nearly so, to run across the land of Jeremiah Title, until it reaches the road known as the Cold Spring Road, thence crossing said road, still pursuing the same course, to run over or along the lands of the following persons, to wit; first, over the southwest corner of David S. Wilson's land to the land of Emanuel Crocker, thence across said Crocker's land, until it strikes the dividing line between William Broadbent and Doctor Benjamin W. Woods, on the one side, and the land owned and occupied by an institution, known as the Orphans' Home, on the other, thence along said dividing line as far as it extends, thence across the lands of said orphans' home to the dividing line between the lands of David M. Perine and the said orphans' home, thence along said dividing line to the dividing line between the lands of said Pe-
