So the house refused to strike out and insert.

Mr. Hammond moved to insert after the word "either," in the 14th line of the same section, the following: "to be in force until the next annual election in the county where said election was held, and at the said next annual election the people of said county shall again vote as above provided."

Mr. Martin moved as a substitute for said amendment the following, to come in after the word "register," in the 13th line of said section, "or if a contested election, the then incumbent shall continue in office till the next annual election in said county."

The question on the adoption of the substitute for the amendment being put,
