

of this title. For this reason Article 1A, section 30 is retained. The phrase limiting this prohibition to aircraft in flight is proposed for deletion in order to prohibit any hunting from aircraft.

Subsection (k) presently appears as Article 66C, section 132(b) of the Code. The term "law enforcement" officer is added to indicate that any law enforcement officer may enforce these laws.

Subsection (l) presently appears as Article 66C, section 142 of the Code. The present section prohibits using ferrets or weasels to hunt game birds and mammals "protected by law". Similar language is used in present section 143. No provision of the present Code, however, defines or describes "wildlife or game birds or mammals protected by law". The department, also, has no official definition of wildlife protected by law and is presently proclaiming in a haphazard fashion which species are deemed protected by law.

Subsection (m) presently appears as Article 66C, section 143 of the Code. The word "species" is proposed for deletion because the definition of "wildlife" enumerates the species. The last provision is proposed for deletion because its substance appears in proposed section 10-207.

Subsection (n) presently appears as Article 66C, section 132(k) of the Code. New language is added to the first sentence to include the acts prohibited by the second sentence. In addition, the word "protected" is proposed for deletion because there is no specific definition of protected game. Rather, the hunting of game birds or mammals is closely regulated and, to this extent, they are protected. The reference to "fur-bearing animals" is proposed for deletion because those species are included within "game birds and mammals". The last sentence is proposed for deletion since its substance is included within the first sentence.
