

of all solid wastes in any municipality.

(2) The Maryland Environmental Service must consult with the governing bodies of affected municipalities regarding the handling and disposition of liquid wastes, but is under no other constraint in planning or providing regional liquid waste collection, treatment, and disposal facilities.

In reaching the decision to adopt the described amendments, the Senate emphatically denied the right of local government to exercise veto power over the authority of the State to deal with a regional problem affecting the public health and welfare.

House Bill No. 1683 contravenes that principle, and we urge that it be vetoed.

Sincerely,
