

Commission. Instead, the amendments to the bill were drafted in a manner that would render Article 76, § 20 nearly unintelligible. If sense can be derived from the amended language, it can be accomplished only with an inordinate amount of effort, thereby opening the door to needless controversy regarding the proper construction of the enactment. I cannot approve this inadvertent invitation to needless controversy, particularly where, as here, there is no urgent need for the measure.

For these reasons, I have decided to veto House Bill 329.

Sincerely,
Harry Hughes
Governor
