In that way, the experiment authorized by the Court of Appeals will continue with respect to civil trial proceedings and all appellate proceedings, so that experience will be gathered in this State as to the impact on those proceedings of broadcast and photographic coverage. That experience, together with experience accumulated in other jurisdictions, can form the basis for evaluation of the effect of broadcast and photographic coverage so that this State may in the future modify its ban on criminal trial coverage as appropriate.

For these reasons I have decided to veto Senate Bill 123.

Sincerely,
Harry Hughes
