

In subsection (a)(2) of this section, "outhouse" is substituted for the archaic term "privy".

Also in subsection (a)(2) of this section, the former parenthetical "commercial or private", which modified "junkyard", is deleted as unnecessary.

Also in subsection (a)(2) of this section, the former parenthetical "combustible or noncombustible", which modified "trash", is deleted as unnecessary.

In subsection (a)(3) of this section, the former parenthetical "commercial or residential", which modified "building", is deleted as unnecessary.

In subsection (b) of this section, "refuses or neglects to comply with a notice or order to abate a nuisance" is substituted for "fails to abate a nuisance" to clarify the relationship between this section and the other sections of this title. This revision is called to the attention of the General Assembly.

Also in subsection (b) of this section, the former minimum penalty is deleted to conform to the statement of legislative policy contained in Article 27, § 643 of the Code, which sets forth the general rule that, notwithstanding a prescribed minimum penalty, the court nevertheless may impose a lesser penalty of the same character.

Former Article 43, § 104A(c), which dealt with the duty of law enforcement officers to enforce this section and of the State's attorney to prosecute violators, is deleted as unnecessary.

The General Assembly may wish to consider substituting "unkempt" for "unkept" in subsection (a)(2) of this section. Although either word would have meaning in the context of subsection (a)(2) of this section, it seems likely that "unkempt" may have been intended originally.

GENERAL REVISOR'S NOTE:

In revising this subtitle, the Commission to Revise the Annotated Code deleted, as obsolete or otherwise unnecessary, the following provisions, in addition to those provisions noted in the revisor's notes to various sections of this title.