

allow the Administration to set the limits for both.

The only other changes are in style.

As to subsection (b)(2)(ii) of this section, the Commission to Revise the Annotated Code notes, for consideration by the General Assembly, that the liability insurance actually provided under this provision includes coverage for actions against a foster parent by the foster child. However, there is no coverage for actions against a foster parent by a natural parent or any other third party. The General Assembly may wish to reconsider subsection (b)(2)(ii) of this section -- and the similar provision in Article 88A, § 32B of the Code -- in light of the actual practice.

The General Assembly also may wish to consider adding a reference to actions by an adoptive parent.

GENERAL REVISOR'S NOTE:

Throughout this subtitle, the phrase "court sitting as a juvenile court" is substituted for phrases such as "juvenile court", to conform to the terminology in CJ § 3-801(h).

Former Article 52A, § 10(a), which stated that this subtitle is not limited by the powers of the conservator of the peace, is transferred to Article 27, § 399 of the Code, which generally relates to those conservators.

Former Article 52A, § 10(b), which included a facility that retains children who are adjudicated delinquent as a place of confinement for purposes of escape penalties, is transferred to Article 27, § 139 of the Code.

Former Article 52A, § 14A, which provided for the clerk's office of the juvenile division of the Supreme Bench of Baltimore City until January 1, 1983 and, after that date, the circuit court, is transferred to the Session Laws.
