

swered me satisfactorily, I would let him pass; I did not arrest any one.

Question by the Committee. Was this before, or after the 19th of April?

Answer. After.

Question by the Committee. In case you had interrogated any stranger you met on the road, what kind of reply from him would have induced you to arrest him as a suspicious character?

Answer. If a man gave answers which I did not think correct.

Question by the Committee. What kind of questions would you have put to a stranger?

Answer. I asked him where he was going to and what his business was.

Question by the Committee. If you had arrested a party as a suspicious character, what would you have suspected him of?

Answer. I don't know: according to the circumstances under which I found him.

Question by the Committee. Would you have arrested a man suspected of being a thief?

Answer. I think I would.

Question by the Committee. The road was not picketed for the purpose of arresting thieves, was it?

Answer. I don't know.

Cross-examination resumed.

Question. Was that in the direction of Cockeysville?

Answer. Yes: right on the pike.

Question. How far is it from Cockeysville to Towsontown by the pike?

Answer. Six (6) miles.

Question. Do you know if there was any United States troops at Cockeysville?

Answer. Only from what I heard.

Question. Was any persons arrested by these pickets?

Answer. Yes? I saw a man who was.

Question. What were the suspicious circumstances attached to him?

Answer. I don't know.

Question. At the time you went to Baltimore, to Holliday Street Square, did your officer, in your sight, report to anybody, or go into the public buildings there, to report the arrival of the company?

Answer. I did not see them.

Question. Did you know Col. George P. Kane?

Answer. I knew him by sight.

Question. Did you see him there?