

Question. Was your attention directed chiefly to that porch or to the place where the flag was being raised?

Answer. My attention was directed towards the flag.

By the Committee.

Question by the Committee. How long after the 19th of April was the last time you saw Mr. Grason in Towsontown?

Answer. Really, I don't know how long that organization was kept up.

Question by the Committee. Do you recollect seeing him in Towsontown between the 19th and the 29th of April?

Answer. Yes; he was there every day after they came back from the city.

Question by the Committee. When was the last time you recollect seeing him there, between the 19th and 29th of April?

Answer. I think he was there until the organization was disbanded; he left there, but I cannot recollect the time of his going away.

Direct examination resumed.

Question. You say your attention was directed to the flag-raising, were you one of the party raising the flag?

Answer. I was a kind of hanger on to the party.

Question. Were you sufficiently near to Ady's Hotel to hear any cheering if it had taken place?

Answer. It would not have been very loud cheering unless I heard it.

By the Committee.

Question by the Committee. Did you print a paper in Towsontown in 1861?

Answer. Yes.

Question by the Committee. What was the reputation of that Horse Guards in conjunction with the Union troops or in opposition to them?

Answer. Yes; rather in opposition to them.

Question by the Committee. Was that the general impression there?

Answer. Yes.

Question by the Committee. Have you any knowledge of any acts of hostility on the part of that company?

Answer. I considered the members of the company burning the bridges were acts of hostility to the government. Mr. Grason had nothing to do with this burning.

Question by the Committee. Do you remember whether the