

and corruption. Moreover, the failure of the bill to precisely define eligible organizations or address the issue of control of minors and nonmembers on the premises presents additional concerns and creates the potential for widespread abuse.

The serious problems associated with this bill far outweigh any short-term monetary benefits to the nonprofit organizations or charities. I am confident that these groups will be able to raise necessary monies through more traditional fund raising activities. The inevitable expansion of slot machine gambling that would be triggered by this bill is simply inconsistent with my vision of an industrious, resourceful, and progressive Maryland. This legislation will do little, if anything, to improve the fine quality of life in our State; to the contrary, my fear is that it will have the exact opposite effect.

Sincerely,
Harry Hughes
Governor

Senate Bill No. 774
