

(b) (1) A person may apply to the Secretary for a first extension of the maximum cold storage time in accordance with this subsection.

(2) A person who desires a first extension shall apply to the Secretary during the 12th month that the food is in cold storage.

(3) The Secretary:

(i) Shall inspect the food for which a first extension is requested; and

(ii) If the Secretary finds that the food is in proper condition for further cold storage, shall issue an order that extends, for a specified period not to exceed 60 days, the time during which the food may be kept in cold storage.

(c) (1) A person who is keeping food in cold storage under a first extension may apply to the Secretary for a second extension.

(2) The Secretary:

(i) Shall reinspect the food for which the second extension is requested; and

(ii) If the Secretary finds that the food is in proper condition for further cold storage, may issue an order that extends, for an additional specified period not to exceed 60 days, the time during which the food may be kept in cold storage.

(d) The Secretary shall:

(1) Keep a record of each extension granted under this section, including the kinds and quantities of food involved, the length of the extension, and the reason for granting the extension;

(2) Keep the record open for public inspection in the office of the Secretary; and

(3) In an annual report, describe each extension that the Secretary grants under this section.]

[4-526.

(a) A person may not transfer food from one cold storage warehouse to another unless all previous marks and tags remain on the food and its container.