

In subsection (c)(1) of this section, the defined term "person" is substituted for the former reference to "any citizen of this State", to avoid inadvertently excluding certain persons from protection.

Also in subsection (c)(1) of this section, the reference to an "ex parte, interlocutory, or final" injunction is substituted for the former reference to a "temporary or permanent" injunction, to conform to the terminology used in the Md. Rules. The substituted language is broader than the former reference to a "temporary or permanent" injunction, if that former reference was intended only to encompass the comparable federal injunctions. Under federal law, an order that is granted, without a hearing, to enjoin action is denominated a "temporary restraining order". However, in common usage, a "temporary injunction" would encompass both the Maryland forms of "ex parte" and "interlocutory" injunction.

Also in subsection (c)(1) of this section, the reference to conduct that is "continuing" is deleted as unnecessary in light of the reference to harm that is "irreparable".
