[(a)]The correctional and reformatory institutions under the Department of Correction are:

- (b) The Maryland Penitentiary.
- (c) The Maryland House of Correction.

(d) The Maryland Correctional Institution — Hagerstown, which is a place of confinement and training for male offenders from sixteen (16) to twenty-five (25) years of age, both inclusive. In those cases in which the judge of the Circuit Court for Baltimore City, who is assigned to exercise jurisdiction in juvenile causes, may waive jurisdiction and order a minor under the age of sixteen, and the judge of any circuit court in any county exercising jurisdiction in juvenile causes, may waive jurisdiction and order a minor under the age of eighteen, to be held for action under the regular procedure that would follow if such act or acts had been committed by an adult, then and in that event the judge presiding in the circuit court of any county upon assuming jurisdiction in such case and upon conviction may commit the minor to the Maryland Correctional Institution — Hagerstown regardless of age. The courts of this State, instead of imposing sentences of fixed duration upon male offenders included within this subsection may sentence them to the Maryland Correctional Institution — Hagerstown for an indeterminate period of time
