

The resolution relative to the state's claim, endorsed "dissented from." And the following message:

By the Senate Feb. 8, 1826.

Gentlemen of the House of Delegates.

We return you the resolutions respecting the claim of the state on the United States for interest on the loans raised by the state during the late war, and which have been recognized and paid by the United States.

We feel ourselves compelled to adopt this course, not from any objection to the measures contemplated to be pursued in the establishment of the claim, or to the appropriation proposed to be made of the fund after it shall have been recovered. But we find annexed to these resolutions, one which "does not immediately relate to, and is not necessary for obtaining or applying the fund;" a resolution, which goes to extend the privileges of the Farmers Bank of Maryland; and as the senate may be disposed to alter or amend that resolution, and find themselves precluded by the constitution to do so, in consequence of its being blended with a money bill, they must return the resolutions, with a request that the last resolution may be separated from the others, with which it is now connected.

By order

Wm. Kilty, Clk.
