

others, for an alteration in the laws relative to the duties of, and for other purposes received, 613; referred, 614; unfavorable report thereon, concurred in, 696; leave to withdraw their papers from the files, 713.

Constitution; leave for a bill to disfranchise persons convicted of felony, 8; bill reported to alter the constitution to that effect, 88; the bill committed, ib; committee report, unfavorably, 168-9; report concurred in, 170.

Committee of one from each county and city, appointed to consider what alterations and amendments, if any, are required in the, 12; so much of the Executive message, 14, order that committee be instructed to consider the propriety of changing the constitution in various particulars specified proposed, 57; the order amended, 57-8; and rejected, 58; the vote to reject the order reconsidered, 60; again, 64; the motion to reject withdrawn, and a substitute proposed for the order, 64; the substitute amended and laid upon the table, 65; Mr. Donoho suggests his indisposition, and is excused from serving on the committee on the, 99; the committee report their opinion that they are not the proper committee to which the subject should be referred, and recommend its reference to the committee on grievances and courts of justices, 104; motion to substitute the committee on elections, 105; the report * ib; communication from Joseph Husband, Jr. on the subject of, &c. received and referred, 118; the committee report their views, 130; and a bill to amend the constitution 131; proceedings relating to printing an extra number of said report and bill, 136-7; considered and †, 166; message proposing a joint committee on the constitution, to whom should be referred the several subjects relating to a reform of the &c. proposed by Mr. Eccleston, 166; and *, 167; the message considered, and various proceedings on—finally rejected, 172; subject announced as the order of the day, 243; house resolve into a committee of the whole thereon, 247; journal of the committee thereon ordered to be printed, 250; bill relating to the executive and to the legislative departments of the government, &c., received from the senate and referred to the committee of the