A. Yes.

Joseph Vallec, sworn.

By Mr. Freaner-Please state what you know about the election held in the seventh ward on the second of November last?

Witness-I live in the seventh ward and went to the polls at nine o'clock, the time of opening; when I got there, there was a considerable crowd, and it appeared to me that each man wanted to get his vote in, until about half-past ten, when there was considerable difficulty in voting; all were anxious to vote, and whilst I was attempting to do so, I got the buttons torn off my coat; after that, there was no difficulty in the least that I saw; I saw a couple of young men who had some fighting-whiskey in them, but they both belonged to the same party; that was the only fighting I saw; I remained at the polls until nearly five o'clock, but I did not see any disturbance.

Mr. Morgan—Was it a quiet election?

A. It was a great deal more quiet than the election in 1844 at the same ward.

Mr. Freaner-Are there any political clubs in the ward to which you belong?

A. There are two, the one called the "Jefferson" and the other the "Wells & McComas."

Q. To what party do they belong? A. They belong to the American.

Q. Did you see any of the members of these clubs at the polls?

A. I did.

Q. Did you see any men who were said to hail from the Northern Liberties?

A. I did not.

Q. How long were you there?

A. From the opening until eleven; took dinner at two, returned, and remained until about five.

Q. Do you know a man by the name of Ned Lee?

A. I do.

Q. Did you see him at the polls?

Q. Did you hear him make any remarks?

A. I did.

Q. What did he say?

A. He went out to the middle of the street and asked of men who professed to be Reformers if they were wanting to vote; there were a great many men standing out on the street; the democrat portion of the party did not appear to care about voting. Mr. Lee went out and visited some of those gentlemen to come up and vote; he asked them if they were wanting to vote, and they told him "no."
