

Mr. Freaner—Q. Who put you there?

A. There were half a dozen persons came to see me, to know whether I would stand at the window as challenger, and as I was well acquainted in the ward, I told them I would; the polls, I know, were clear all day, excepting a little while in the morning, and any man who wished could vote.

Mr. Schley—What time were the polls opened?

A. Nine o'clock.

Q. How long were they kept open?

A. Until six o'clock.

Q. Were any legal voters prevented from voting to your knowledge?

A. I saw men come up there to vote, whose tickets were not taken.

Q. Were any legal voters prevented from voting?

A. No, sir; none that I know of.

Q. Were any illegal votes received?

A. Not one that I know of.

Mr. Stockbridge—Q. Do you know Benjamin Horn?

A. I do.

Q. Did you see him there that day?

A. I did.

Q. What was his conduct?

A. He was not conducting himself in a manner becoming an election.

Q. Was he intoxicated?

A. I do not know.

Q. Was he quarrelsome?

A. Judge Krebs came up to me, and said, "I want you to get Mr. Horn up to vote." I went and took him by the arm for the purpose of voting, and when he got a certain distance he said I wanted to get him whipped, and he would not come up.

Q. To what party did he belong?

A. To the Democratic party. He commenced talking in the street, and said that he had not the privilege of voting; I thought he came there with the intention of kicking up a spree, and although I offered to take him to the polls, he would not come.

Q. Did you see him make any effort to vote?

A. I did not. When I got him as far as the curbstone, he jumped away; Mr. Levy, the Reform challenger, was there; I stood on the one side, and he on the other.

Q. How long did he stay?

A. Pretty much all the morning.

Q. Do you know why he left?

A. From conversation I overheard the night before, I think
