

The Court adjourns until the third Monday of June. and Dord: 1735.

Three decorative flourishes in cursive script are positioned below the text. The first flourish on the left is a large, sweeping loop that descends into a series of horizontal, overlapping loops before ending in a small, tight scroll. The middle flourish is a series of horizontal, overlapping loops that tapers to a point and ends in a small, tight scroll. The flourish on the right is a series of horizontal, overlapping loops that tapers to a point and ends in a small, tight scroll.
