True Version of The Chicago Platform,

Resolved, That the war is a very good war, and a most unrighteous war, and while it should be stopped at once, must be carried on with great vigor.

Resolved, That the Rebels have been fairly provoked by the vile Abolitionists, and should be tenderly treated by a Major-General who will be all for peace, and at the same time for a vigorous prosecution of the war.

Resolved, That while we disapprove of the course which the Rebels have conscientiously adopted, we regard as distinguished patriots all gentlemen known as Vallandighamites.

Resolved, That the country is in a most unpleasant condition, and that it is the duty of a President-Major-General to make matters pleasant.

Resolved, That were are for this thing, that thing and the other thing, by which we mean that we are for the other thing, that thing and this thing.

Resolved, That we are for the good old times, the great old times, the beautiful old times, the high old times—any times but such times as these times.

Resolved, That we are for McCLELLAN, who will be a Man of Wax, and for PENDLETON, who will be a Man of Dough.

Resolved, That we are for peace and no taxes, peace and no war, peace and universal prosperity, peace first, peace last, peace at any price, and peace all the time; and for a vigorous prosecution of the war—and especially for peace.
