MARTLAND GAZETTE,

Containing the freshest Advices foreign and domestic.

THURSDAY, August 20, 1752.

From the LADIES MAGAZINE.

The Stone-Cutter's Address to a young Widow of a Knight lately deceased.

Divine Flint! Time?

ERE you not harder than Perplyry or Agate, the Chiffel of my Love, drove by the Mallet of my Fidel. ty, would have made fome Imty, would nave made some Impression on your Heart. I, that have shaped, as I peefed, the most untoward Sub fiances, hoped by the Compass of Reason, the Piummet of Discretion, the Saw of Constancy, the site of Kindness, and the Pollish of good West to have madelled you have one of the pression. Words, to have medell'd you into one of the prettieft Statues in the World: But alas! I find you are a very Flint, that shoots Fire, and sets us in a Blaze, tho' you are as cold as the Marble in my Shop. Alas! must I that have made so many bard. Matters yield, now see the Edge of my Endeavours turn'd and blunted? Why should you despise my Profession? Pray, were not Praxiteles and Phidias Statuaries, and consequently Stone Cutters, as well as 1? And yet their Names have outlived by 2 or 300 Years, most of those whose Statues they had made; and will be famous hereaster, when a Thousand little dubb'd Mortals Memories will wear out sooner than the Cloaths that mourn their Deaths, and be utterly lost to all that never go to Church to read their Epitathi: Methinks then, we, to whom they owe the Eternity of their Names, shou'd be reckon'd the Nobler of the Two; and indeed what can be greater, than out of Stock and Stone to make Princes, Kings, Saints; and I may add Gous themselves.—But what need we stand upon Extraction? Am not I a Man or 300 Years, most of those whose Statues they need we stand upon Extraction? Am not I a Man fix Feet high; well made and young? Are not I a Man fix Feet high; well made and young? Are not you a Lacy, a Widow, at your own Difposal? And did not the noble Lady, your Coufin Leweit, marry her Groom? My Lady Long for it, her Coachman? And my pretty Lady Hajly her Position? Another fancied her Butler; and another her Footman. Again as for our your San Hour her Footman. Again, as for our own Sex: How many dignified Sparks owe their Wives to the Dairy, the Landry, or the Kitchen? And how many are fill proffering honourable Love to their Cook maids? Recall then my Banishment, noble Widow, or I shall finish my Days with my own Compass: But first I'll erest my own Monument, and inscribe it with this Rojiaph:

and inscribe it with this Bpitaph:

Under this Stone lies the Cutter, Who long purr'd like Cat in a Gutter For a Widow worfe than Tariar,

And at last is dead her Martyr. If my Poetry is not so good as it cught to be, you must attribute it to my Confusion, for I know not either what I say or do. If I go to make a Dragon, I strike out a Cupid: Instead of a Church Font for Baptism, I make an Apothecary's Mortar: A Death's Head for a Venus, &c. Dear, dear Pillar of my Hopes Pedal of my Comfort, and lar of my Hopes, Pedestal of my Comfort, and Corniss of my Joy; upon your Pity I build all the Happiness of my Tabernacle. I am ready to erect Statues to your Generosity, Monuments, Oblish and Pyramids to your Glory. Let it not then be said, that your Cruelry bath out off faid, that your Cruelty hath cut off
The STONE CUTTER.

From the GENTLEMAN'S MAGAZINE, for April.

ANY Instances might be given of the wonderful Force of inward Computation and Horrors, that sometimes possess a guilty Mind, and are awakened there by the most unexpected Circular awakened there awakened there are not considered to the control of the cumitances:

IVI wonderful Force of inward Compunction and Morrors, that fometimes possess guilty Mind, and the awakened there by the most unexpected Cirumstances:

I dare say, Sir, That your Acquaintance with History and the World, will suggest to you many examples of this Kind, in which it must be own'd, hat the Hand of Providence is very conspicuous. beg Leave to mention one, because it is a true tory, and happened in a neighbouring State not lany Years. I dare fiy, Sir, That your Acquaintance with History and the World, will suggest to you many Examples of this Kind, in which it must be own'd, that the Hard of Paralleland is normal configuration. Story, and happened in a neighbouring State not many Years ago.

A Jeweller, a Man of good Character and con fiderable Wealth, having Occasion, in the Way of his Business, to travel at some Distance from the Place of his Abode, took along with him a Servant, in order to look after his Portmanteau. He had along with him some of his best Jewels, and a large Sum of Mosey, to which his best Jewels, and a large Sum of Money, to which his Servant was likewife privy. The Mafter having Occasion to dismount on the Road, the Servant watch'd his Opportunity, took a Pistol from his Master's Saddle, and shot him dead on the Spot. Then riffing him of his Language and Money and hanging a large him of his Jewels and Money, and hanging a large Stone to his Neck, he threw him into the nearest Canal. With his Booty he made off to a distant Part of the Country, where he had Reason to believe that neither he nor his Master were known. There he hegan to trade in a very law Way and There he began to trade in a very low Way at first, that his Obscurity might screen him from Observation, and in the Course of a good many Years seemed to rise, by the natural Progress of Business, into Wealth and Consideration, so that his good Fortune appeared at once the Effect and Reward of his Industry and Virgue. Of these here

Reward of his Industry and Virtue. Of these he Reward of his Indultry and Virtue. Of these he counterseited the Appearances so well, that he grew in great Credit, married into a good Family, and by laying out his hidden Stores discreetly, as he saw Occasion, and joining to all a universal Affability, he was admitted to a Share of the Government of the Town, and rose from one Post to another, till at length he was chosen chief Magistrate. In this Office he maintain'd a fair Character, and continued to fill it with no small Anacter, and continued to fill it with no small Anacter.

racter, and continued to fill it with no small Applause both as a Governor and a Judge; till one Day as he sat on the Bench with some of his Bre thren, a Criminal was brought before them, who was accused of having murder'd his Master. The Verdich, that the Priloner was guilty, and the whole Assembly waited the Sentence of the President of the Court (which he happened to be that Day) with great Suspence. Mean while he appeared to be in an unusual Disorder and Agitation of Mind his Colour changed of the seath he peared to be in an unusual Disorder and Agitation of Mind, his Colour changed often; at length he rose from his Seat, and coming down from the Bench, placed himself just by the unfortunate Man at the Bar, to the no small Association of all present. You see before you, said he (addressing himself to those who had sat on the Bench with him) a striking Instance of the just Reward of Heaven, which this Day, after thirty Tears Concealment, presents to you a greater Criminal than the Man just now found guilty. Then he made an ample Consession of his Guilt, and of all it's Aggravations, particularly the Ingratitude of it to Aggravations, particularly the Ingratitude of it to a Master who had raised him from the very Dust, and reposed a peculiar Confidence in him; and told them in what Manner he had hitherto screen'd himself from public Justice, and how he had esca-himself from public Jultice, and how he had escaped the Observation of Mankind by the specious Mask he had wore. But now, added he, no sooner did this unbappy Prisoner appear before us, charged with the same Crime I was conscious of myself, then the cruel Circumsances of my Guilt beset me in all their Horror, the Arrows of the Almighty suck sast within me, and my own Crime appeared so atrocious, that I could not consent to pass Sentence against my Fellow Criminal till I had first impannelled and accused myself. Nor can I now seel any Relief from the Agonies of an awakened Conscience, but by requiring that Justice may be forthwith done against me, in the most public and solemn Manner, for so aggravated a Parricide. Therefore in the Presence of the All seeing God, the great Witness pass Sentence upon him, and he died with all the Symptoms of a penitent Mind: An exemplary Instance of the fatal Effects of an exorbitant Passi from Hanover, with Dispatches of great I tance; and 'tis said an extraordinary Could furnished for To morrow on that Occasion.

on, and the tremendous Justice of Providence, in detecting one of the most cool and artful Villains, after such a long Concealment.

From the GENTLEMAN'S MAGAZINE, for March.

SIR,

LEASE to spare a Place in your Magazine for the inclosed: The Poet is a Journeyman to a Tradesman near Charing Cross, and this Specimen of his Abilities was occasioned by a Resolution in his Master, for certain Reasons sounded upon Experience, never to advance Money to his Workman before it was earned. But the Muse Workmen before it was earned. But the Muse sung not in vain; his Wants were supplied; and this is the genuine Paper, in his own Hand writing, as I had it from his Master.

LEWIS'S Wants.

Nordinary Bed—fo the Tackle's but R. B.

The Price, I believe, may be shillings eighteen. 18
A Beditead, I care not how clumsey 'tis made,
So the Fleas and the Bugs are but of it asraid. 12 A small Pair of Bellows, that blows a good

And a Kettle of Tin that a Twelvemonth will laft.

A Grate I have got, tho' 'tis not very flout, Poker, Shovel, and Tongs I cannot do without.
Two Chairs I must have—as p'ain as you please,
Without Painting, or Carving, or Cushions for Ease.

A Mop and a Brush, that will give many Scrubs, A Broom, and a Pail, and a couple of Tubs. A large Earthen Steen, that my Sally mayn't pop, So often for Beer to the Chandler's Shop. A Pan for to fry now and then a good Stake, With some ord'nary Plates that wont easily break.

A Table, no Matter if o'd 'tis as Adam, What a Pleasure 'twould be to look round, if I

How blest I shou'd be if a Friend I had found, To affift a poor Rogue with the Sum of three

R O M E, May 6.

By Advices from Constantinople we learn, that notwithstanding the Grand Signior continues to persist invariably in the Resolution of living in persect Friendship with all the Christian Powers, yet he intends shortly to give Directions for putting the Place he possesses in Dalmatia, in a proper State of Desence. The same Advices add, that the City of Constantinople is now almost as populous as it was before the late Plague, occasioned by lous as it was before the late Plague, occasioned by the vast Numbers of Workmen of all Sorts, who have been fent there by the Beglerbegs of the fe-veral Provinces, according to the Orders they have received fome Time ago from the Grand Vizier, for that Purpose.

Copenbagen, May 12. The King has caused a Placart to be published, by which his Majesty acquaints his Subjects, that his Ministers Plenipotentiary have concluded two Treaties of Peace, one on the 18th of December last, with the Regency of Tunis, and the other on the 22d of January, with the Dey of Tripoli, by which a free Navigation is secured for our Ships trading in the Mediterranean Sea. These Treaties are to be made public as soon as the new Regulation for granting Passes can be adjusted. On Friday last Count Rosenberg, Minister from their Imperial Majesties to this Court, received an Express from Vienna, with Dispatches of great Importance, which he immediately communicated to Baron Bernsdorff, Minister of the Department for foreign Afficient

Minister of the Department for foreign Affairs.

Vienna, May 13. A Courier is arrived here from Hanover, with Dispatches of great Importance; and 'tis faid an extraordinary Council is d by Public Vendue, Town, in Prince George's County, turday in September next, which eteenth Day of the Month, at XII be had again, shall have Three and reasonable Charges, paid by Richard Croxall.

ay from the Patapsco on, on the first of July last, a Datch onging to Charles Carrell, Esc; amed Michael Holling thee, alian away on Horschack, having with one of them of a Roan Colour, other uncertain, but supposed a between Patapico and Annapolis, o be gone towards Virginia He Coat trimmed with white Metal Hat, and is dress'd in the Datch a Gun with him, which he car-ng at his Back: He is a down. of a midele Sixe, with thick Lips and I think black Eyes, a brown speaks bad English.

es the said Servant in any Goal, llowing Tracts of Land, rederick County; viz.

called Friendship, containing 400

lled Gordon's Purchase, containing alled Exchange, containing 700

e for three Lives of a Tract of ntain Rock Marsh, containing 500 to of his Lordship's Manor, lying ity, paying a yearly Quit Rent of erling. given (if required) for one talf Money: For Title and other

James Dick.

ised, Rented, or Sold, doules, Lots, and Imts in London Town, where the line and kept Ferry; as also several. Likewise to be rented a Lease of and, lying in the Savamp, on Her-Persons inclinable to agree for any may apply to the Subscriber, at rapolis: Where may be had, great cean and East India Goods, Baruscowado Sugar, Cordage. Cables, Cloth, Ship Chandlery, &c. &c. est Prices, for Bills of Excharge, Paper Currency, or Tobacco. Stephen Weft.

ersons indebted to the Mr. Stephen Weft, late of London. are defired to pay their respective those who have any Demards Estate, are requested to bring is ephen West, Executor.

vay from the Subscriber, Annapolis, on the 23d of May like ant Woman, named Hannab Esor 24 Years of Age, pitted much Pox, has a Scar in one of her Eye y tall, but a very strong, siesh co-masculine Wench. She had of her, a blue Jacket, an old which n Petticoat, a double Mobb, sa, a small striped check'd Apron, t, and Night Gown, no Shees not without doubt will charge ker had a Horse Lock and Chain ca gs. Whoever takes up the fill rings her home, shall have Fort e, Four Pourds, and reasonable en out of the Province Five Pound Charges, paid by Daniel Wells.

FFICE in Charles-fireet; SEMENTS of a moderate per Week after for Con-