About the same Time, a Proposal was made to poison the Captain, by putting some Ingredients for that Purpose into his Water Gruel, upon which one of the disaffected Men, who had some Knowledge of physical Compositions, ran down to the Surgeon's Chest, rummaged it, and at length found a Bottle of Aqua Fortis, when he cried out, Here it is, this will do the Business; but the Execution of this execrable Design was defeated, by the Boatswain's throwing that destroying Liquid overboard. Then Pye, with a Pot of Brandy, drank down to the Captain, which was heartily pledged by Paddy, but with Reluctance and through Fear by the rest. Capt. Sanders growing well, came upon Deck, but made no Attempt to recover the Command of the Vessel, but calmly submitted to the Insults of Pye, through his Means faring, in all Respects, like a foremast Man; while he and Paddy insolently and rebelliously claimed to themselves his Province and Provisions. Some Time after they being in want of Necessaries, bore away for this Island, where they arrived the 6th of October, N. S. and coming off English Harbour, they fired several Guns, as Signals of Distress, which brought Boats to their Assistance: On the People's coming on board, Capt. Sanders preferred his Complaint against the above mentioned Men, who were secured in Irons, and after the now's anchoring in Falmouth Harbour, conveyed on board His Majesty's Ship Advice, then lying at English Harbour, in order for their Appearance at the Bar. — Soon after the Snow's Arrival, the Produce of Part of her Cargo (being a out sixty or seventy Slaves) and what remain'd, was sold for the Benefit of her Owners or Insurers; who, 'tis said, will be great Losers.
