FROM THE LONDON GAZETTE,
DRESDEN, October

IT is confirmed, that the Saxon Army, un molested, and without any Loss, passed, that when the advanced Guard, Half Way up a steep Mountain, called Stein, they found that the Prussians, all the Defiles, and that it was impossible for their Way; so that the whole Saxon Army, themselves surrounded on every Side, at the greatest Extremity, for Want of Provisions, capitulated.

His Polish Majesty, who is in the Force, has given Field Marshal Rotowski full Power of the Army; and we expect every Hour that the Capitulation will be signed.

Marshal Brown had arrived the 11th of October, near Schandau, and immediately acquainted with his Arrival, letting them know, that he would be there till the 14th at Noon, and then he would march; and arrived Yesterday at Kamnitz, where he had a small Detachment of his Regiment, which fell in with his Rear, and about 100 Men.

His Prussian Majesty is, at present, King of Poland's former Head Quarter.

October 20. The Saxons remained in the Night between the 12th and 13th; the Army passed the Elbe, on a Bridge of Cannon of Konigstein; but the Bridge, which was all got over, and the Prussians, a Part of it. The Saxons, of a new Camp in a narrow Plain, near the River, which lies directly opposite to the old Camp, on one Side by the Banks of a very steep and rocky, and on the other, called Lillienstein, which again is surrounded by Rocks and Ravines, having at one End, and at the other a Road towards Walsdorf, which was all Times, but then rendered inaccessible by the Prussians. In this Situation, the Saxon Army continued from Wednesday, when they began to capitulate, but they did not do so till Sunday Morning. Bread was sent to the Camp as soon as the Capitulation was agreed to.

Marshal Brown came to Mitteldeutsch, about 8000 Men, in order to have it, were defended by the Prussians under the command of one Mile from the second Camp, as soon as the Prussians had Notice of the Saxon Army, they sent a Detachment of 2000 Men to reinforce the Party under General Leutnant, who had the other Side of the Elbe, and the Prussian Hussars attacked his Rear Guard, two Companies of Grenadiers, and up to the Elbe, the Saxon Army, the Saxon their General Officers, crossed the Elbe, where the Prussians had a Bridge, whence they marched into a Plain in the distance of about 2000 Paces, and after passing between two Battalions of the Prussian's Regiment, drawn up on the Elbe, they formed a hollow Square, and War read, and the military Oath administered, there was but one Bridge laid over the Elbe, from the Saxon Camp were extremely giment took the Oath separately, that Day and the next. The Soldiers of the Officers have refused to enter into the Service.

The whole Saxon Army consisted of 12000 Men, which were Horse and Dragoons, extremely well looking, and mostly young Men, who had suffered for want of Bread during the Blockade of five Weeks. The Cavalry consisted of 4000 Men.

The Convention and Capitulation which has made with the King of Prussia is as follows:

1. That the King of Prussia yield to the King of Prussia; the Prussians to be permitted to serve against their Will. To grant Dismissal from his Service, who then shall be at Liberty to eat, and those who do not choose to be incapable of serving during the War, of Poland is said to have given full Power to grant such Dismissions to those who shall be desired to accept of the Service.

2. That the Garrison and Castle of Glogau be in the Hands of his Polish Majesty, that a perfect Neutral State be maintained, and no Protection afforded King of Prussia's Enemies, nor that the Elbe any ways interrupted.

3. The King of Poland to be at Liberty to pass, and he has accordingly received the King of Prussia sets out the
