

On Thursday the 19th of January last, the Halifax Packet arrived at New-York, in Passage from Falmouth, which brought following most important Advices.

From the LONDON GAZETTE, November (Which begins with a Letter from the Prussian Army a particular Account of the complete Victory gained by Prussian Majesty over the French and Imperial Armies, commanded by the Princes of Saxe-Hildburghausen and Soubise, which is as follows.)

Extract of a Letter from the Prussian Army to the King, written at Ulm, the 24th of October, the King's Army happened to be divided in two Corps, some of them at the Head of 20 Leagues asunder. Upon which the Princes of Saxe-Hildburghausen and Soubise were marching up directly to the King's Army, who was then in Leipzig, with intentions, the King resolved that the Army should join again; which was executed the 27th of October. The whole Army remained at Leipzig the 28th and 29th, and every body thought that a Battle would be fought in the Plains of Leipzig. On the 30th, the King drew nigh that the Prussian Army was to be engaged with the Enemy, 500 Men were made Prisoners.

The Enemy had repassed the Sala, and down the Bridges at Weissenfels, Merseburg Halle; but they were soon repaired, whole Army having passed the River through three Towns, joined again the 3d of November in the Evening, over against the Enemy. The King was going to engage them on the 3d, but deferred it, and the whole Day was spent in Cannonade, to which our Cavalry, being advanced, were exposed, and by which they killed them 9 Men.

On the 5th, Intelligence was brought, that the Enemy was in Motion. We heard their Drumming the March the whole Morning; and very plainly perceived, from our Camp, that the whole Infantry, which had drawn nearer the fighting Grounds, over against us, was flying towards their Right. No certain Judgment could yet be formed of the Enemy's Design; and as they were in Want of Ammunition, it was thought probable, that they intended the Retreat. But it was soon perceived, that several Motions were contradictory to the Retreat. At the same Time that some of their Infantry were flying off towards their Right, a large Cavalry marched towards their Left; and the whole Camp, which lay in the Bottom of the Villages of Rederow and Robach, surrounded, within the Reach of large Cannon, after that Cavalry was seen to halt, and to fall back to the Right. Some of the Cavalry remained, however, whilst the rest was flying back. About Two in the Afternoon, the Enemy were cleared up; and it plainly appeared, that the Enemy intended to attack us; and that positions were made with a View to do so, and to open the Action by attacking us.

In case we had been defeated, the Cavalry over against Rederow was to have fallen routed Troops, and to have prevented the Retreat to Merseburg; the only Retreat which they have been left us.

The King then took the Resolution to attack the Enemy, and attack them. His Majesty had determined to make with one Wing only; and the Disposition of the Army made it necessary that the Left-Wing should be the first to begin the Action; his Majesty ordered who commanded the Right Wing, to take a proper Position in Consequence, and, above all, to prevent our being routed. The Cavalry of our Right Wing, or three Squadrons, had already been communicated to the World for a general Good, by THOMAS TRYON, Student in PHYSIC.
