A G U E, December 4.

certain, that on the Twenty-second month, there was a smart Engagement, between the Austrian Army, com- Duke Charles of Lorain and Marshal that of the Prussians, under the Orders e of Bevern. Some Advices from ve- Hands, assure, that the latter, not- the Superiority of it's Opposers, had ned a complete Victory, but that he had had pursued them Four Leagues from the Field of Battle. Nevertheless, Letters received this Day, by the Post, from Germany, tell a different Story, viz. That the Austrians, after an obstinate Resistance, at length penetrated the Prussian Entrenchments, and took all their Baggage and Equipage; so that we must suspend our Belief, till we receive further Intelligence of this important Affair. Indeed, both Armies equally claim the Honour of the Day; but, in general, it is given to the Prince of Bevern.

[Besides this there are several Accounts in the Boston Paper, speaking of the Advantages and Disadvantages of this Engagement of the 22d of November, to both Parties; but we think it needless to insert them. At present it must suffice to inform our Reader, That the King of Prussia, after joining the Prince of Bevern in Silesia, obtained a complete Victory the 5th of December following, over the Austrian Army, under the Command of Prince Charles of Lorain and Marshal Daun. That (as some Accounts say) the Prussians were 44,000, and the Austrians above 60,000: That the Austrian Army were broke to Pieces, and above 20,000 of them killed or taken Prisoners. But the following under the Boston Head out of the same Paper, strengthens the Whole, and seems to put the Truth of the Intelligence quite out of Doubt] to wit,

B O S T O N, Monday, February 20.

The following glorious Piece of News is just come to Hand, viz.

BY a Vessel arrived Yesterday at Marblehead, in a short Passage from Lisbon, we have, by Letters from that Place, dated the 25th of January last, a Confirmation of the Defeat of the Austrian Army by the King of Prussia, on the 5th of November last; and that the Advantages he gained by the Battle, are infinitely greater than was at first apprehended:—And further, That on the 5th of December, just a Month after the other Battle, the King of Prussia, with an Army of 38,000 Men, in Silesia, entirely vanquished and routed the Austrian Army there, which were 70,000 strong: In which Action Numbers of the Austrians were slain; and the Prisoners taken on the Day of Battle, and since, exceed 20,000 Men:—That Prince Charles of Lorain and Count Daun, who commanded the Austrians, had retired into Breslau, with only 10,000 of their remaining Troops, which Place the victorious King of Prussia immediately blockaded, and in a few Days, they, with 14,000 Austrian Troops, surrendered Prisoners.

[It appears that Count Daun and the Duke of Lorain, had a little Time before attacked and taken Breslau, which belonged to the King of Prussia, as being ceded to him in 1742, and confirmed by the Treaty of Aix-la-Chapelle, in 1748.]

Other Letters add, That the Hanoverians, under Prince Ferdinand, had actually routed the French, having taken Harburg, made the Garrison Prisoners, marched against Richelieu, whose Army was struck with a Panic on their Approach, and obliged him in great Haste to retire out of Germany, slaughtering them on their March.

We further learn, by the same Paper, That in the late Snow Storm we had here, Two London Ships, bound in to Boston, were cast away going into that Port, and that the Vessels and Cargoes were entirely lost, but the People saved. Letters brought by these London Vessels, acquaint us, That Sir Charles Hardy, our late worthy Governor, was ordered to the Command of a Fleet of Men of War immediately to proceed to Halifax as soon as equipped, for which they were making all possible Preparations.

There is one more Paragraph in the Paper, which says, that M. de la Motte's Squadron from Louisburg, was safe arrived in some Port of France, without having been met with by the English Fleet; but we have Reason to think this is premature: [Indeed it is a French Account]: And we trust, that Sir Edward Hawke's Success in the Bay of Biscay (as mentioned in our last Monday's Gazette) will, in a little Time, come confirmed.

P H I L A D E L P H I A, March 2.

We have Advice from Albany, that on the 8th ult. as a Serjeant and some Men were going into the Woods at Fort Edward for Firewood, they were surrounded and attacked by a large Party of Indians, in Snow Shoes: That the Serjeant was shot through both his Thighs, but notwithstanding defended himself with his Fire-lock against the Indians, as they came up to tomahawk and scalp him, till he was carried into the Fort: That a Corporal and Fifteen Men were killed, and some Prisoners carried off: That a Soldier got into the Fort after being scalped: That two of the Enemy were shot, but taken away by their Friends: And that Captain Rogers, with 120 Rangers, went immediately in Pursuit of the Indians, but could not come up with them.

A N N A P O L I S, March 9.

His Excellency our Governor, this Forenoon, by a short Speech to both Houses of Assembly, Prorogued them to Thursday the 23d Instant: This Meeting of the General Assembly was only a Convention, as no Bill was passed into a Law.

Last Saturday Evening, an old Woman named Patience Jennens, accidentally stumbled into a Well in this Town, and perished. It is said she died in Liquor.

By a private Letter from Philadelphia, of the 3d Instant, we are inform'd, That the great Body of Snow on the Ground, prevented our Forces going on any Expedition Northward; that the Snow was Six Feet deep at Albany, the oldest Man living not remembering so much Snow there in a Winter before, and that the Passage with Carriages was altogether impracticable. That a Vessel arrived at Philadelphia that Day, from Barbados and St. Kitts, which spoke with a Man of War bound to New-York, which confirm'd the foregoing Account of the great KING OF PRUSSIA'S Victory; and further inform'd, that she parted with Seven other Sail of Men of War bound to America; and that a great many more, with a large Armament, were very soon to follow them.
