IT is natural to pass from one Nation to another. He that thought that it was, will set more on every Glimpse. When we lost Minorca, upon the Nation, and every Labour with a clouded Forehead, as if London had been before now taken, and our Streets and blaze with Illumination, once more proclaimed at Paris Grief and Joy are natural, but as soon as we can, and according to its Importance, according to its Value. The has been so happily conducted, are new Examples in History, conquered in so short a Time. Whether this Facility of Success English Skill, or to French Tispleasing. If our military Skill hope to conquer Men, who, Bravery, have less Knowledge timorous they can never be to be their Skill. The French too much Confidence in their Harbour inaccessible by Sea, and consider the Befiegers might deries. Human Caution is new Sides; and Danger, when it comes with double Force. Whether their Ships destroyed by Shot lost their Courage, and forgot yet undemolished. Thus Loss and the Reputation of our Arm indeed an Effect, if not the Conquest. And this Advantage not only by the Capture of the Destruction of eleven Ships, Navy, which was weak at the War, is reduced to a State in which hope to oppose us.
