

Capt. Holbourne; and Shannon, Capt. Meadows, the Echo, Capt. Leforey, is ordered for America. CHARLES-TOWN (in South-Carolina) April 28. The Little-Carpenter, with his Attendants, is out on his Return for the Cherokee Country. He behaved very well during the whole Time of Stay here, went off thoroughly satisfied, and appeared desirous of nothing so much, as to be deemed a true Friend to the British Governments and their Allies.

By Captain Marshall from Providence, we learn, that a small Privateer Schooner, called the Polly, so large as one of our Pilot-Boats, belonging to Mr. Lawrence Donaldson of that Island, with 27 Hands, and commanded by Capt. Alexander Wrait, has lately taken and carried in there very large Dutch Ship of 10 Carriage Guns, and 25 Men, laden with Sugars, &c. from Port-Prince, where she had lain nine Months; and likely to prove the richest Prize that has been carried in there this War. Capt. Wrait's attempt of taking this Ship is looked upon to be a very great Instance of Gallantry in him and his People; and had the Dutchmen made the least Defence, any of them with a good Club might have presented the Privateer's People entering the Ship, who were obliged to mount the Schooner's Main-board.

May 5. Saturday last King Heigler, with his Catawbas, returned for his own Country, as perfectly satisfied with their Reception and Treatment here, as we have been with their Conduct to their Allies.

Yesterday Morning Capt. Clouston arrived here from Louisburg, which Place he left three Days after Capt. Extract of a Letter from the Bay of Honduras, dated the 23d of April, 1759.

"Your Favour of the 20th of December, I have received, and am sorry to inform you that the Bay is almost evacuated, and shortly expect will be completely so; and must inform you it is not in my Power to comply with your Request, for those Gentlemen, with the principal Inhabitants of any Note, have precipitately departed from hence, with all their Slaves and most valuable Effects; and others are going off as fast as they get their Interests away. This sudden Rout is occasioned by the strongest Assurances of our common Enemy (the Spaniards) coming with a superior Force, utterly to extirpate us out of the Bay; and our Apprehension still increases, by various Reports of Preparations making against us, and some Partisgers have lately been discovered amongst the Keys, we imagine to take a Flax of our Strength; and when some Vessels of Force has departed from this Place, we may hourly expect them.—Goods and Provisions are plenty, and almost a Drug, there being no Buyers here of Consequence, and after the Return of the Crafts, now gone up the Rivers, there will not remain 300 Tons of Wood cut in all the Bay, and but little of that to be come at for the Want of Slaves: The few Inhabitants left has chiefly declined Cutting; their principal Aim is to depart in Safety with their Effects. I expect shortly to be with you, and for further Particulars shall refer you till then. I am, &c. &c.

Off of the Capes of Virginia he saw two Ships lying to, one of which very large; that on seeing him and another Vessel, both steering to the Northward, they immediately set Sail, and gave Chace, but could not come up with them; and the smallest Ship, which chased Capt. Lewis, bore away again for the large one.

ANNAPOLIS, June 14.

We cannot find that the Report lately spread of the French having retaken Pittsburg (Fort Duquesne) has any Truth in it; but have the strongest Reasons to hope that it was altogether without Foundation.
