E are once more in the most critical Situation, justion the Point of falling again under the Yoke of the French; who, without firing a Gun have not only inder the themselves Masters of Cassel, and the open Munden and Gottingen. However, though their Army is a great Deal superior to ours in Number, we have so much Considence in the Bravery of our Troops, and the Capacity of their General, that we doubt not of their being visitorious, if they come to a Battle. E are once more in the most critical Situif they come to a Battle,

Erlangen, June 3. The advanced Guard of the Army of the Empire, commanded by Count Palfy, engaged on Wednedday last with the Prussians; the Affair happened near Hoff, the Austrian General was worsted, and, it is said, his Loss was very considerable; a great Part of his Baggage was taken, and a Number of his People made Prisoners, among whom was General Kleefeld; he likewise lost several Pieces of Cannon. The Prussians pursued them as far as Bareith. It is likewise said, that the Prince of Stoberg is dead; but we do not know whether he was carried off by any Illness, or was killed in the Action. All this sufficiently shews that the Prussians have not evacuated Franconia. In all Probability Prince Henry will stay in the Neighbourhood of Host. the Eruffians have not evacuated Franconia. In all Probability Prince Henry will flay in the Neighbourhood of Hoff, until he is certainly informed whether the Ruffians wilk approach the Frontiers of Sileda, or the New Marthe of Brandenburgh, to the End that he may march wherever his Prefence shall be necessary. It is reported here, that a Body detached from the Army of this Prince, is marched in order to before Eval in which the Austrians have a very large

Hanover, July 6. Prince Ferdinand of Brunswick having again requised the Regreey of this Elettrate to send him, as soon as possible, 24,000 Recruits, to compleat the Army under his Command, we have allually set about raising them. Our Garrison consists of 1000 Militia, who are exercised every Day, and Arms have also bouty in case of a Visit from the French. However, though we do not get seem to have much to fear from the Enemy, we fould be very glad to see a warmy repair the Wester, that it may be nearer at Hand to cover this Election ate. It is therefore hoped. Prince Perdinand will resolve upon this Measure, as soon as he soull have secured the Magazines he has less on the other Side of that River.

Hague, July 12. The 16th an Express arrived here from the Alsted Army in his way to London. We have just received Letters from that Army, dated the 9th, importing, that on the preceding Day Prince Ferdinand fixed his Head Quarters at Osabrag; and Marshal Contades was then at Biclessed. By the some letters we are informed, that a Bedy of Hanoverian Humters, under the Command of Cost. Freytag, lately actived the Corps of Alfate Volunteers, who is before the great Number killed on the Spot, they took 280 Prisoners, among whom was the Commander, and 28 other Officers.
