NEW-YORK, July 14.
Wednesday Evening last the Privateer Ship Duke of Cumberland, James Lilley, Commander, returned here from a saving Ceuize: The 5th Instant, in Latitude 39, Captain Lilley spoke with Captain Motrison from Glasgow, bound for Virginia, from whom he got two Edinburgh Papers, one of which was dated May 24, and the other May 26, 1760: From them Papers we have the following Advices, viz.

From the Edinburgh Evening Courant, of May 24. From the LONDON GAZETTE, May 20. H A G U E, May 16.

ETTERS from Ofnaburg mention, that the Troops of the Allied Army in and near that Place marched from their Cantonments on the Place marched from their Cantonments on the 5th, and that the last Division thereof arrived at Paderborn and the adjacent Villages on the 12th, where arrived likewise the Marquis of Granby on the same Day, who had been obliged to remain some Days at Osnaburg after the Troops on account of his Illness. The Troops all marched again from Paderborn on the 14th, in order for their encamping on the 20th at Fritzlar. We don't hear that the main Body of the French Arabas in Mosilies.

the 14th, in older that the main Body of the French lar. We don't hear that the main Body of the French my are yet in Motion.

By Letters from Miessen of the Fifth it is said, that the King of Prussia continued in his Camp at Schlettau near that Place; and that Marshal Daun's Army had not yet made any Motion; but that General Laudohn was marched through Bohemia into Lusatia, where it was probable he might join General Beck.

Berlin, May 8. The King's Army in Saxony, after having been form Days in continual Motion, to deceive the Enemies, has suddenly abandoned most of the Posts which it occupied in the Neighbourhood of Dresden, amongst others those of Kesselsfoorff, Briesnitz and Uckerssorff, and is gone to eacamp between Micssen and Neissen on a very advantageous Spot, being covered on one Side by good Entrenchments, and on the other by inexpressible Woods and Ravins.

Wartzbeurgh, May 6. The March of the Army of the Empire, and the opening of the Campaign, depend wholly on the Contrassors for Provisions and Forage. The King of Prussia hath made a Defart in the true Sense of the Word of the Country that must be crossed to come at him. He hath stipt it so bare of Man and Beast, and Provisions for either, that it is a Matter of great Indistrence by whom it is occupied. The Hanoverians, on their Part, have proceeded on the same Plan in the Country of Fulda, and as far in Thuringia as they durst set their Noses.

Paris, May 9. The English have blocked up Portmahon in such a Manner that our Prizes cannot be carried in thither, and we are very apprehensive of their being retaken.

Hagus, May 15. The Count d'Affry, the French Ambassidor, sets out next Saturday for Paris.

Extrast of a Letter frem Paris, May 9.

"More than fifty Merchant Ships have failed from our Ports within these fix Weeks; Part of them are bound to Canada, the rest to Martinico; and have nearly all escaped the Vigilance of the English, but we are not always to hope for the same good Luck. We are in some fear that the four Ships from Rochfort, which went down the River with absolute Orders for failing, may be taken, or at least attacked by seven large English Men of War cruizing in the Gulph of Antioch.

"Some strong Insinuations are thrown out, that our falute Orders for failing, may be taken, or at least attacked by seven large English Men of War cruizing in the Gulph of Antioch.

"Some strong Insinuations are thrown out, that our Court and that of Spain are taking Measures to accelerate the End of the War, without depending on an unfruitful Mediation."

Extrast of a Letter from the Allied Army, dated March 1.

"Several French Officers have deserted to us, and have effered to serve the Prince; but he rejected them and gave them Passports to return to their own Country, at the same Time gave Orders, that if they were found straggling in their Cantonment they should be scized.

"The Prince has changed almost all his Aid-de-camps; the English are as follow: Lieutenant Colonels Boyd, Ligonier, and Beckworth; Captains Sloper, Fielding, and Egerton. Major of Brigade, Carpenter."

By To-day's Holland Mail there is an Account of the Arrival of all the British Troops that lately embarked.

Extrast of a Letter from on board the Reyal William, May 1.

"On the 13th of last Month we took La Mutine, from Bourdeaux to Cape-Francois, with Bale Goods and Provisions. She had failed five Days before in Company with nine other Ships convoyed by a Frigate. The whole Fleet was chased the Day before by two of our Cruizers, and had all separated. Six of ten were bound for the River St. Lawience, above Quebec, with Troops and Stores; the other four for Cape-Francois.

"The Prisoners inform us, that 20 Sail more had been ready for Sex ten Days, with a fair Wind, but refused to fail till the Government paid the Freight in hand, for they would till the Government paid the Freight in hand, for they would

OF CHATZ, in Saxony, May 7.

THE Camp of the Prussan Army is now quite sinished, and is a Master Piece of military Architecture, The Army receives great Part of its Provisions from the Magazine of Leipsick. The new Works at Leipsick being sinished, an additional Number of Hands will be employed on the Fortifications of Wirtemberg.

Hamburgh, May 13. His Prussian Majesty has ordered 300 Pieces of Cannon to be sent from Berlin with all possible Expedition into Saxony. It is believed his Majesty will act upon the Desensive both there and in Silesia, and that Prince Henry, with an Army of 60,000 Men, will go to receive the Russians upon the Frontiers, to prevent their coming farther.

Henry, with an Army of 60,000 Men, will go to receive the Ruffians upon the Frontiers, to prevent their coming farther.

Extraît of a Letter from Paris, May 9.

"The King of Poland, Duke of Lorsin and Bar, has fent all his Plate to the Mint of Metz; and most of the Noblemen and Gentlemen belonging to his Court have followed his Example. The Archbishops and Bishops continue sending theirs to the several Mints of the Kingdom.

"The Ships in the Villaine are not yet disarmed. They wait for the first high Sea to attempt getting out; if they should still meet with Obstacles, the Project will be then renounced, and they will be laid up."

LONDON.

All Advices from Saxony and Vienna (says a Letter from Hamburg) acquaint us, that every Thing is ready for the Opening of the Campaign. The Austrian Troops are in such good Order, the Magazines so well concerted, that the Empress Queen hath great Reason to hope for the most statering Success. Marshal Daun, who to superior Talents for the Art of War, adds the greatest Modesty, when he last sent to be Majesty a State of the Troops under his Command, added, that he would never appear in her Presence till he had reduced the King of Prussia to reason.

They write from Frankfort, that the private Men of Marshal Broglio's Army discover the greatest Alacrity; but that no good Harmony subsists among the Field Officers. Many of them attend only to Plessures; and the Jealousy of others is so much increased, that it is feared the Marshal's Projects will miscarry. All his Endeavours to restore good Order in his Army meet much Opposition: He hath been lately obliged to put two General Officers under Arrest; some say, for corresponding with the Enemy, and others for Disobedience. The Return of an Express sent to Versailles, will declare their Crime and declare their Fate. It is reported at Frankfort, that the Marshal will, as soon as he can procure Substitute for the Army, advance to the Plains of Minden, and there wait for the Enemy.

All the late Dispatches from Germany, far from being perations: concerted for the Campaign, which is June to this Time opening in all Quarters.

All the French Generals who are to make the Campaign in Germany had Orders to be at one or other of the Armies for which they are defined before the 23d of this Month.

Orders are feat to the Recruiting Parties belonging to the Battalions of Guards defined for the fecret Expedition, to

Two French Ships from Marseilles for the West-Indies are taken by the Guernsey and Shannon Men of War, and earried into Gibraltar.

The Aurora, of Bourdeaux, to Canada, Burthen about 450 Tons, with Stores and two Companies of Soldiers on board, is taken by the Constantine, Forsyth, of Bristol, and carried into Baltimore. The Constantine had but 28 Men, and the Aurora had 108.

A Letter from the Hague mentions, that the States of Holland still insist on an Indemnification from England, for the Stoppage their Trade has met with from our Cruizers and Privateers; and that M. Meerman, Pensionary of Rotterdam, had received an Order to repair to the Court of London, to make an Attempt to accommodate the Differences between that Court and the Republic.

A List handed about at London makes the Allied Army under Prince Ferdinand, including the late Reinsorcement from England, to amount to 94 Thousand effective Men, all in sine Order, well paid, and plentifully supplied with every Necessary. In this Number is included four Free Battalions, composed of Deferters and Swis Troops in the Service of France, commanded by pick'd Officers, and each Battalion a Lieutenant Colonel.

The Ship under Spanish Colours, taken by the Pallas
Man of War, supposed to be a French East-Indiaman, ar-

Lieutenant Colonel.

The Ship under Spanish Colours, taken by the Pallas Man of War, supposed to be a French East-Indiaman, arrived on the 21st at Plymouth. A great Part of the Crew are Spaniards, but as the Cargo consists mostly of East-India Goods, she is thought either to belong to the French India Company, or at least to have been hired to carry home Part of the Cargo of the Shins that some Months are were oblized. of the Cargo of the Ships that some Months ago were obliged to put into Spain.

By Captain Bartlet, who arrived at Boston the third Instant, in 38 Days from BRISTOL, we have the following Articles, viz.

BREST, April 18.

HE Sovereign, of 74 Gunt, equipped at Rochfort, will fail for Martinico the 30th Instant. Within this eight Days upwards of 50 Merchantmen have failed for Martinico, and St. Domingo, laden with every Thing that may be useful in those Colonies, which we shall preserve in spite of all the Forces in England.

Madrid, April 15. Orders have been repeated to hasten the Departure of the Fleet against the Middle of May; from whence it is inferred that the Court will forthwith enter into the War. Twelve Men of War are arrived at Ferrol or Cadiz, where they are to be joined by some others from Barcelona; but the Object of their Destination remains an impenetrable Secret.

Paris, April 25. A Company of Merchants have obtained Leave to fit out, at their own Expence, at Brest, the Syrene, Fleur-de-lya and Valentine Frigates, to cruise on the English. The great Affair of Peace is likely to meet with many Difficulties: In the first Place, England hath not accepted of Spani's Mediation: In the next Place, the Kings of England and Pruffia have not shown any Difficulties of England and Pruffia have not shown any Disposition to induce the Courts of Sweden and Saxony to fend Ministers to the Congress: In the third Place, England has concluded fresh Turaties with the Duke of Brunswick Wolfenbuttle and the Landgrave of Hesse. Cassile; the Tendency of which is, to give additional Vigour to the Operations of the Allied Army, Harveer, May 9. Nothing can be more deflitute of Foundation, than the Reports of the King of England's being expected here this Summer. The French, far from desting expected here this Summer.
