CRUEL Destiny has then cut short the glorious Days of so great and so magnanimous a Monarch! We are come to pour out our Grief into the paternal Bosom of Your Excellency, the noble Tribute of Gratitude, of a People who will never cease to exalt the Mildness and Moderation of their new Masters. The General who conquered us has rather treated us like a Father than like a Vanquisher, and has left us a precious Pledge, by ...

ADMIRAL BOSCAWEN was dead: That the King of Prussia's Victory over Count Daun was as complete as it possibly could be: And that the greatest Preparations were making for pushing on the War with the utmost Vigour.
