THE MARYLAND GAZETTE, [Numb. 843.] Containing the latest Advices foreign and domestic.

THURSDAY, July 2, 1761.

LONDON, March 3. YESTERDAY Theodore Gardelle, a Frenchman, was re-examined before John Fielding, Paul Valiant and Theodore Sydenham, Esqrs. at Mr. Fielding's House, touching the wilful Murder of Mrs. Anne King, late of Leicester Square, in whose House the said Gardelle was a Lodger, when during an Examination of many Hours, the said Gardelle persisted in denying the Fact with the most invincible Obstinacy; but Mr. Fielding having prior to the Examination, sent Officers with a Carpenter and Bricklayer to the House of the deceased, with Orders to examine every Part of it in order to find the Body; after some Time, received a Messenger from them acquainting him that they had found the Entrails of the Body in the Doghouse; which Message being delivered in the presence of the Prisoner, soon occasioned his making a partial Confession of the horrid Crime, which was afterwards made in the fullest Manner in Warrants being issued against two of his Accomplices, who since appeared to be very innocent, and to the following Purport, viz. That on Thursday the 10th of February last, about seven in the Morning, he, Gardelle, having sent Mrs. King's Maid of a Message, and her Mistress not being up, agreed to wait in the Front Parlour till the Servant's return, in order to answer the Street Door; that Mrs. King lodged upon the same Floor, and the Maid's Absence was getting up and spoke to the Prisoner, whereupon he rushed into the Room, and attempted to force the Deceased, so that she struck him, whereupon he gave her a violent Blow, which stunned her by falling against the Bed Post; that seeing her thus injured, he took a Knife out of his Pocket and cut her Throat, then locked up the Room, and the same Day artfully discharged the Maid of the deceased without a Discovery, by which he got Possession of the whole House; he then dissected the Body, and divided it into many Parts; that he flung the Entrails down the Necessary, together with the Knife with which he committed the Murder; that he then made a Fire in the Garret, and there burnt the Head and most of her Bones Ashes, and concealed the Flesh at the Top of the House, between the Tiles and Roof, all which were found.

The said Gardelle is by Trade an Enamel Painter, and in the Course of the Examination, it appeared that he had robbed Mrs. King of a Gold Watch, two Diamond Rings, and about ten Guinea in Money, which he having lodged in the hands of honest Persons, they produced them as evidences against him. It is said he has a Wife and two Children now in Paris. He is in the Cells Newgate, chained down to the Floor, and one of the Turnkeys is to sit up with him every Night to prevent his destroying himself. Gardelle, the horrid Assassin now in Newgate for the Murder of Mrs. King, has confessed his taking her Watch, but gives an odd Turn to that Circumstance; he says his Reason for doing so was, in order to countenance the Report he had spread of her being gone abroad for some Days. He very frankly owns the Murder, with all the dreadful Circumstances that followed it, but appears unwilling to confess any Design of Theft. Strange! that a Man, who could calmly and deliberately go through an Operation upon a Body of a Woman who had just murdered, should have such mistaken notions of Delicacy as to be ashamed of Theft. The Fact, with all its Circumstances considered, is, perhaps, the most foul that ever disgraced the Annals of Britain, who, it is hoped, will never give countenance to such a Monster. The too common Plea of a disordered Mind, is not so much pleaded; the horrid Deed was committed in the full possession of the unhappy Woman was rising from her Bed, and but half dressed; the Plea of Passion might have some Claim to Pity, did not the subsequent, calm, deliberate Scene of Villainy bar the Gates of it; the Wretch is neither a Frenchman nor a Genoese, but was born in the City of Geneva, well known for its Situation on the Lake Lemman, near the Foot of the Alps; he is, as all the Natives of that City are, a Protestant, and is attended by a French Clergyman of that Persuasion.

March 14. Gardelle, now in Confinement for the Murder of Mrs. King, being, it is said, asked why he did not attempt making his Escape, after committing that shocking Fact, as he had so fair an Opportunity? answered, that he had often attempted it, but constantly imagined himself stopped at the Door by somebody holding him by the Collar of his Coat.

April 23. The Captain of the King George Packet spoke with the Blond Man of War off the Bar, who had taken the Grand Cyprus Privateer of Bayonne, of 18 Guns and 180 Men. The Packet was chased by a Privateer for several Hours. Yesterday Advice was received that a French Privateer of 22 Guns was taken off Flamborough-Head by the Acteon Frigate.

BOSTON, June 15. Extract of a Letter from a Gentleman in London, dated April 11, 1761.

"When a Congress was proposed some Days ago, Mr. Pitt declared he would not enter on the Subject, till the French first agreed to give up all Pretensions to Canada and the Fishery: And by the Mail To-day, I am informed, they have agreed to the former, but struggle to keep the latter."

"Lord Chesterfield died this Morning." We hear from Newport, Rhode-Island, that last Week, two French Dutch Prizes were sent in there, one taken by Captain Sweet, in a Privateer belonging to that Place, viz. a Sloop bound from Old France to the Cape, laden with dry Goods, Wine, &c.—The other a large Sloop, bound from the Cape, laden with Sugar, Coffee and Indigo, taken by Capt. Hanfen, in a Privateer belonging to the West-Indies, after a smart Engagement, in which several were killed on both Sides; Captain Hanfen had also taken two other Prizes from the same Place, and sent them to New-York.

Friday Night last several Officers and Merchants came to Town from Portsmouth, at which Place they arrived last Week in eight Days from Halifax, by whom we learn, that all the Men of War, except two, were sailed from Halifax for the River St. Lawrence.

Yesterday an Officer came to Town in 20 Days from Montreal, who informs that all is well in that Quarter.

Last Tuesday Evening, one Jeremiah Dexter, of Walpole, a Trader, was detected in offering false and counterfeit Dollars in this Town; and being apprehended and examined, there were found upon him five of them, cast in a Mould; they were made of Pewter, or some base Metal, and want near three Pennyweight of the Weight of the genuine Ones.—He at first made very weak and evasive Answers to excuse himself; but being committed to Prison, he confessed next Morning with Tears, that they were of his own making, and that he had no Accomplices. But we hear he has since accused one of being concerned with him, after whom a Warrant is issued.

The same Day Capt. Bartlett arrived at Marblehead from the West-Indies: On his Passage, near the Latitude of Bermuda, he was taken by a French Privateer, and ransomed his Vessel for 3000 Dollars.

NEW YORK, June 22. Last Sunday Week sailed from the Hook, on a Cruise, his Majesty's Ship Penzance, Capt. Boyd: We hear she is to return to this Port again in August.

Wednesday a Schooner arrived here in about five Weeks from Teneriffe, by whom we learn, that the English Fleet there, having taken in their Lading of Wines, was ready to sail the first fair Wind.

PHILADELPHIA, June 25. Last Night Captain Mitchell arrived here in six Weeks from Londonderry, by whom we have London Advices to the 30th of April; but, for Want of Time and Room, we can only insert this Week what follows, viz.

From the London Gazette Extraordinary. Whitehall, April 30, 1761. This Morning the Honourable Captain Barrington, Commander of his Majesty's Ship Achilles, arrived with the following Letters from Major General Hodgeson, and the Honourable Commodore Keppel, to the Right Honourable Mr. Secretary Pitt.

Belleisle, 4 o'Clock in the Morning, April 23, 1761. AS I have just had a Note from Commodore Keppel, to inform me that a Frigate will sail this Day for England, I have only Time to acquaint you, that his Majesty's Troops under my Command, landed Yesterday at Five: The Enemy's Attention was so distracted with our Attempts of landing at different Places, where there was the least Appearance of our being able to succeed, that it gave Brigadier Lambert an Opportunity of climbing up a Rock, with a Corps I had left with him for that Purpose, if practicable: The Difficulty of mounting had made the Enemy least attentive to that Part.—Beaulerk's Grenadiers, with their Captain Patterson, got up before they saw what was intended. They immediately marched a Body of 300 Men to attack him. The Grenadiers maintained their Ground till the rest of Brigadier Lambert's got up. We took three Brass Field Pieces, and some wounded Prisoners. It is impossible for me sufficiently to commend Mr. Lambert's Conduct and gallant Behaviour on the Occasion; and take the Liberty to beg you will recommend him to the King, as an Officer deserving his Majesty's Favour. Captain Patterson has lost his Arm. I believe our Loss is not above 30 killed. I am afraid you will not be able to read this Scrawl, as I write it in the Field, the Troops being on their March.

I am, &c. S. HODGSON. Valiant, in the great Road of Belleisle, April 23.

SIR, I HAD the Honour to write you a Letter by the Acteon Frigate, in which I gave but little Hopes; since which Time, the General and myself having considered, that by attempting a Place where the Mounting the Rocks was just possible, and where the Enemy were no other ways prepared, from the impracticable Appearance it had to them, than by a Corps of Troops to annoy the Boats in the Attempt, that it carried some Degree of Hopes with it, and by making a Disposition for the Attack of their intrenched Bays, and at Saizon at the same Time, which the Arrival of the Transports with the Light Horse enabled me to do, we might possibly gain a Footing.

I have now the greatest Pleasure in acquainting you, that his Majesty's Troops have made good a Landing on the Rocks near Point Lomaria; and cannot sufficiently commend the Spirit and good Behaviour of the Troops in the Attempt; and the Judgment, with which Sir Thomas Stanhope, and the rest of the Captains of the King's Ships, directed their Fire upon the Hills.

Captain Barrington having been employed in many of the Operations on this Service, I have sent him Home with this Letter; and beg, Sir, to refer you to him for the Particulars. I have the Honour to be, &c. A. KEPPEL.

N. B. The Acteon Frigate, mentioned in the Beginning of the Letter, is not yet arrived. A LIST of Officers and Seamen killed, wounded and missing, at the Attack on Belleisle, the 8th of April, 1761.
