N A P L E S, April 4.
THE following is a Translation of a Manifesto against the Maltese: by Powerful Grand Sultan Osman the great Amurath, illustrious Turki, our Predecessor, and author of immortal Memory, bearing date the little Rock of the Knights of St. John, and deposing their Slips, who were sent to sea; but Death snatched him off, and he was taken off. To us he left in his Testament his Design put in Execution. Perish the Enterprize, had we not been so opposed by these Knights and their King, who were against our Ships, in the Execution of whom in regard to our Ships, we were taking a quick and lawful Revenge. Therefore, taking a quick and lawful Revenge, by this present Ordinance, that our Subjects should in the Month of March, with their Gallies, attack the little Rock, and that all the Ships in the Mediterranean Sea, that may embark our Subjects, should be seized, and that we may imprint Terror in the Universe; and that our Subjects may feel our just Indignation; and that the Power may be made the last Maltese, &c. &c.
