

Voyage to Newfoundland for this End, not be calculated to serve the separate Views of particular Party, but the common Interest of the whole Republic of Letters in every Nation, every future Age will equally partake; for more Observers there are, and the more their Stations, the more firmly and accurately will the Conclusions be established; as the Clouds may obscure to one single Observer, its uncertainty whether any one of this or subsequent Age are like to see this uncommon Spectacle again, on which depends the Solution of many great and valuable Problems in Astronomy.

NEW-YORK, August 3.
Last Capt. Linn arrived here, in 16 Days from London; by him we have Advice, That his Majesty's Ship Zephyr had taken and carried in there, Capt. W. from the Mount for New-London; and Capt. from the same Place for Philadelphia; and the Donnell, in a Providence Privateer, had carried a Captain Brown, bound from the West-Indies for Philadelphia; that a Ship of 20 Guns is fitting out at Providence, to cruise off the Mount for a large Indian, that here lately from London.

Same Day eight Transports, under Convoy of the Ship Philadelphia, arrived here from Dominica; with same Captain Oden, and his Company of Rangers; Ships sailed from hence in May last, with the Transport Command of Lord Rollo. By several Letters from the Island we learn, That many of the Indians, and obdurate, fled to the Mountains, and would by no means wear Allegiance to his Britannic Majesty.

PHILADELPHIA, August 6.
Ship Indian Trader, Captain Robinson, from the London, is taken, and carried to Bayonne. Brig Honell Heart, from Piscataway, was taken, and retaken by his Majesty's Ship Antigua, and Barbados. Now Charming Betty, Captain Campbell, from the for St. Lucar, was taken and ransomed for 5000

Jamaica we have Advice, that his Majesty's Ship had taken, and sent into Port-Royal, a small Privateer, of 14 Swivel Guns: And that a large Merchantman had been also sent in there by the Mantle and Washington, in two Privateers.
