The MARY

[XIXth Year.]

NEW-YORK, April 11.
SATURDAY last His Majesty's PACKET-BOAT the HARRIOT, Capt. ROBINSON, arrived here from Falmouth, which she left the 7th of February. From the Public Papers to Feb. 14, are collected the following Advices, viz.

RATISBON, December 27.

THE King of Prussia will not consent to a Suspension of Arms in the Empire unless the Army of the Circles immediately leave Franconia, and return to Bohemia.

Rotterdam, January 4. The Weather continues very severe; and the Entrance of the Maeze and Gorce are so full of Ice, that several Ships, that were coming in, have been obliged to put back to Sea.

Berlin, January 1. The King will agree to no Cessation of Arms with the Army of the Circles, but on Condition that the Troops of that Army be called home in the Spring, and that the Austrians consent to an immediate Exchange of Prisoners.

Paris, Jan. 3. The Number of Infantry to be kept on Foot in Time of Peace is fixed at 89,476, including 22,240 for the Service of the Colonies.

Cologne, Jan. 7. The 5th Instant, at 4 in the Evening, 1600 Prussian Troops took Possession of Keyserwerth; when two Companies belonging to the Elector of Cologne, who were in Garrison there, marched out.

Petersburgh, Dec. 7. The Frost was so severe in the Night of the 1st Instant, that next Day the River Neva was passable on the Ice.

Madrid, Dec. 31. Orders are given to disarm all our Ships of War except such a Number as may be sufficient to curb the Barbary Corsairs, and escort the Flotillas and Galleons.

Upon Enquiry into the Conduct of our Sea and Land Officers, during the Siege of the Havannah, it has appeared that none of them were in Fault.

Ratisbon, Jan. 13. On the 10th the Dyet resumed its Deliberations, when the Minister of Mentz proposed the Neutrality, and desired thereupon the Sentiments of the Assembly. The Minister of Brunswick declared, that his Britannick Majesty would support with all his Force, such of the States of the Empire as were desirous of restoring and preserving the Public Tranquillity. The Minister of Brandenburg renewed his Proposition of immediate and absolute Neutrality, and expatiated on its advantageous Consequences; the Ministers of Mentz, Treves, and Cologne, reserved their Opinions; but the Ministers from the Electors of Bavaria and Palatine declared roundly, that the Miseries of the War were such as could be no longer endured; and that if Peace did not immediately ensue, they were for settling, without Loss of Time, a Neutrality with his Prussian Majesty. The Minister of Bohemia declared, that he could give no Opinion for Want of Instructions.

Hamburg, Jan. 21. The two principal Difficulties that retard the Accommodation between the Courts of Vienna and Berlin, are the indemnifying of the Elector of Saxony, and the Possession of the County of Glatz, which is, as it were, the Gate between Bohemia and Silesia. This last retarded for some Weeks the Treaty of Breslau in 1742.

Franconia, Jan. 15. Though Letters from Saxony still Talk of Peace, we are informed that the King of Prussia flatly refuses to indemnify Saxony, as he did not begin the War; but that if the House of Austria, or its Allies, will indemnify Saxony, he will not oppose it.

Erfurt, Jan. 17. According to all Appearances, the Negotiations for Peace do not promise the Success expected; and according to the Behaviour of the Prussian Troops, there is little Reason to expect any Thing in Favour of the Saxons. The severest Threats, and actual Executions, are carried on without ceasing; and universal Misery increases daily. On the 13th the subaltern Officers in Leipzick were sent round to acquaint all the Inhabitants, that unless they brought, within the Space of 48 Hours, their Quota of the Contributions demanded of them, the Plundering, to which they were liable, should of a Certainty be inflicted on them upon the 16th.
