

Duties of Husband, Parent, and Master, the utmost Care and Tenderness; and accordingly it is well known he had a most amiable Character, in every one of these Particulars. He was no Bigot in Religion, active and zealous in discharging the Duty of his Function; greatly admir'd as a most elegant and pathetic Preacher, by all who ever hear'd him; and in particular esteem'd by his Parishioners, which alone is no small Test of his Merit. The many joyful Hours spent in his Company (for he was the most delightful Companion) together with the just Sense of his Worth, have drawn the few hasty Lines from a Pen, not fond of appearing in Public on such Occasions: 'tis a Pity methinks he shou'd drop into the Grave, without some little Notice at least from the Muse. — Such as the short Notice and my small Turn to Poetry, will afford his Friends are welcome to on the Occasion, so that if they shou'd meet with nothing better, which, without Affectation I think may very easily may, the following Lines may be inscrib'd upon his Grave-Stone by Way

E P I T A P H,

On the late Rev. Mr. JAMES STERLING

STRANGER, whoe'er thou art, one Moment And take a useful Lesson in your Way. No Tomb superb, or speaking Marble Bust Here courts your Eye, — this covers nought but Dust. And yet this Dust (now tremble human Pride, And lay your gaudy Trappings all aside) This humble Dust, by Worms possess'd, contains All of Great STERLING that on Earth remains. All that remains of Talents so sublime, As ne'er before adorn'd this Western Clime. Buried in Silence lies that rapturous Tongue, On which admiring Crowds have often hung; To hear GOD's comforts to a World display'd With all the Charms of Eloquence, display'd Or when with sweetest Notes he tun'd his Lay. Enraptur'd Souls with Pleasure dy'd away: But all the mortal Frame is now dissolv'd in Clay. His nobler Part has upwards wing'd its flight: To where congenial Spirits dwell in Light: And thence, with Pity views vain Man, who mingles With his whole Race, consume to Worms and Dust.

ONE John Ferrell, from Maryland, came to my House, on the Virginia Side, about 2 Miles from Rock-Creek Ferry, about the Middle of June last, and worked there about 15 Days, and got acquainted with a Convict Servant Woman of mine, named Hannah Arthur, a fresh-looking English Woman, from Dover, about 22 Years of Age, some Freckles on her Face, and a brown Mark on her right Cheek, that one may cover with their Thumb; and he carried her away on the 15th Day of August last, and was seen with her near the Great Broadwater's, on Patuxent, and keeps her secret about his Father's, Martin Ferrell's, who lives near John Fowler's, about 2 Miles from Mr. Ferrell's new Furnace. I have been twice with him, the first Time his Father abused me very much, but he promised to deliver her on my bringing him Five Pounds Virginia Money, and I brought the Money last Time, but he would not deliver her. As he is afraid of Officers, and I understand broke out of Annapolis Jail, there is no coming at him; but as the Convict Woman will be seen at different Times by People in the Neighbourhood (or perhaps with the Relations of Martin Ferrell's Wife, who I understand live near the Mill, and she, the Wife, seems by her Colour to be of the Mulatto breed).

Whoever apprehends the Servant Woman, and either committed to any Jail, and advertises it in the Maryland Papers, shall have Five Pounds Reward, paid to the Sheriff, before she is taken away, by HENRY CULLOM.
