Yesterday when his Majesty went to the Parliament House he was greatly Huzz'd, and at the End of each Huzza, God blefs the King and down with the Bread. When he entered Parliament-Street, a Quartern Loaf stuck upon a Pole covered with Crepe, was carried by the Side of the State Coach to Old Palace-yard, and back again.

Letters from Naples mention, Accounts have been received there from Constantinople, that a late Shock of an Earthquake had done considerable Damage in the Island of Lemnos.

The Wild Boar, which lately attacked the French King, as he was Hunting near Campeigne, tore out the Bowels of his Horse with his Tusks; But his Majesty having luckily a spare Horse near him, he got upon it with great Agility, and putting the Beast immediately to full Speed, thus escaped the Fury of the enraged Animal.

It is talk'd, that Part of our most fourtherly Possessions, on the Continent of North-America, will be ceded to the King of Denmark for a valuable Consideration.

Last Thursday, about One o'Clock in the Afternoon, two Fellows, one of whom seem'd to be a Countryman, fell to playing Pitch and Tofs near the New Church in the Strand: The Countryman, won all the other Fellow's Money, who (like a true Gamester) ventured his Coat, Waistcoat, Hat, and Shirt, in order to recover it back, but he lost all, and was oblig'd to go home stark-naked; his Cloaths were sold upon the Spot to a Jew, who got a dead Pennyworth of them. The Countryman would have given him his Shirt, had it not been for his ill-manners.

We are inform'd there will be no Opposition in Parliament the next Session, but that a Coalition of Parties has already taken Place, and that the D. of B., Earl T., Mr. G., &c. &c. have given their Word to assist in all Measures for the Public Good: That the Relief of the Poor is to be their first Object; and that the Business of the Nation is to be executed upon an entire new Plan, from which we may expect the most salutary Effects.

On Tuesday last the Deputy Steward, High Bailiff, Deputy Bailiff, Chief, and other Burgeses of the City and Liberty of Westminster, waited on his Grace the Duke of Northumberland, to thank him for his Goodness and Generosity, in accommodating them, and the other public Bodies of that City and Liberty with so commodious a Place as the New Guildhall, to transact the Public Business in: And at the same Time made their Compliments of Congratulation to his Grace on the high Dignity his Majesty has been lately pleas'd to confer on him. His Grace received them in the most obliging Manner, and entertain'd them with an elegant Collation of the choicest Fruits, Wines, and other Refreshments.

The two Gentlemen who fought the Duel lately at Paris, immediately after they were seemingly reconciled by the Marshal de Biron, are sentenc'd by the Tribunal of Marshals of France only to suffer a Year and a Day's Imprisonment; so that the Charge of Assassination which was at first talk'd of, is supposed to have had no Foundation.

Richmond, in Surrey, August 27. The following is a true Account of the horrid Murder committed by Richard Mihill, on his Brother Robert Mihill, both Sons of a Baker in this Town.

About a Month ago Richard Mihill, was under some Difficulty to pay a small Debt, for which a Writ was made out against him, and deliver'd to two of the Officers of Kingston Court, who went to Richmond, in Order to arrest the Defendant; but he judging their Business, retreated, with a Pistol in his Hand, and with Oaths and Imprecations, threaten'd to shoot the first Man that should endeavour to take hold of him; the Officers did not execute the Process, but went and applied to his Mother, to see what she would do; who willingly paid the Demand of the Officers, to extricate him from that Trouble; as she had often done before on other Occasions. Notwithstanding this Indulgence, the unhappy Man wanted some more Money, and with a Knife in his Hand, threaten'd to cut his Mother's Throat, if she refus'd to supply him, who was thereupon oblig'd so to do: This Affair reaching the Ear of his Brother, the unfortunate Deceased, he told his Mother, she might work for ever to no Purpose and all the Care he, the Deceased, could take, would be of little Avail, if she would give Way to relieving the Prisoner with Money every Time he would apply. Something of this being told Richard, he publicly declared he would be revenged on his Brother Robert, who, very worthily, had the Care and Management of the Business of a Baker, for his Father, who is much advanced in Years. The above Declaration of Richard being told to Robert, and being advis'd to swear the Peace against Richard, he did so, and got a Warrant to apprehend him; but alas! the usual good Nature of the worthy unhappy Deceased, induc'd him a Day or two after, to go to the Officer who had the Warrant, and desire him to give it up; alleging, he believ'd it was only Passion in the Prisoner to drop those Words; that he was his Brother, and should it be executed he must be committed to Goal, where in all likelihood, he might long remain for want of Bail, which he could not bear a Thought of, and therefore desired to forgive him; and upon which the Warrant was given up, and a Day or two after, the Deceased met his most wretched, wicked Brother, and generously accept'd him thus; "Dick, I am not afraid to meet you, though you have publicly threaten'd my Life; you are my Brother, I never did you Wrong, therefore conclude you mean me no Harm; I had got a Warrant against you, which I now destroy; I am no more than a Journeyman to my Father, there is all the Money in my Pocket; and gave the Prisoner Seven Shillings." The ungrateful Wretch's Return for this Kindness was, the next Time he saw the Deceased, which was on Saturday the 23d Instant, coming with some Potatoes in his Apron into the Shop, the Prisoner, without speaking a Word, with a Case Knife struck the Deceased across his Wrist, and cut his Arteries, and stabbed him in the Breast; which Wound would not have been mortal, according to the Surgeon's Account, but the bloody Villain made a second Stab, which reach'd the main Artery of the Heart; on which the Deceased endeavour'd to cross the Way to Mr. Strudwick's, a worthy good Surgeon, and a Friend to the Deceased, but he could reach no further, than the Post at the Door, which he hung by with his Hands until he dropp'd speechless, and expired. The Maid heard the Villain say, as he ran through the Shop, damn him I have done for him; and as she had heard Words often pass between the Brothers, she suspected something had happened, and immediately went to the Door, where she saw the Deceased weltering in his Blood; upon which a Hue and Cry was made, and the Delinquent taken and brought before Sir William Richardson, Knt. where he prevaricated much, sometimes confessing, and at others denying the Fact: However he was committed by Sir William, and detain'd the same Afternoon, by Charles Jemmet, Esq; Coroner for the Town and Hundred of Kingston, for the wilful Murder of his Brother Robert Mihill.

P. S. A younger Brother is now confin'd at Richmond, for threaten'd to set Fire to the House of Mr. Mihill, senior, because he was not admitted as Heir at Law into the House and Trade. (The Father is since dead.)

On the 19th of December, at the Court of Oyer and Terminer, in Suffex County, New-Jersey, Robert Ray was burnt in the Hand for Murder, and Robert Seamour was tried for the Murder of an Indian Man of the Oneida Nation. The Evidence against him was, his Behaviour to the Indian before they went together from the House; his being possessed of the Indian's Gun and Goods; Proof that he broke the Back and Legs of the dead Body, and bury'd it; that he confest'd the Murder to some Witnesses, and declar'd he would destroy any Indian that came in his Way. He challeng'd several of the Jury, deny'd the Fact, and said he bought the Goods found on him, of a Sailor; the Jury brought him in guilty; he appear'd undaunted, and seem'd to expect a Rescuc, but there was not the least Appearance that any was intended; the Audience, which was very numerous, seem'd unanimously to approve the Verdict. He was remand'd to Prison, which was guard'd that Night with 25 of the Militia. Next Morning he was brought to the Bar, and sentenc'd to be execut'd between Three and Four that Afternoon, at which Time he was accordingly brought out, strongly guard'd by Detachments from the adjacent Companies of Militia: He appear'd dismay'd at the Gallows, made a short Prayer, declar'd he liv'd a very wicked Life, and was Guilty of the Fact for which he was to suffer: He was then execut'd.

An Indian of Note, of the Oneida Nation, had with some Difficulty been prevail'd upon to attend the Trial, from first to last, he was respectfully treated, and appear'd highly satisfi'd with the Justice of the Proceeding, which he said he should represent to his Brethren.

He was perceiv'd once to move his Hand and Neck, and Died in about an Hour, without a Struggle.
