

Nov. 7. They write from Copenhagen, that a Pro- al has just been made to the Danish Ministry, for ...

Letters from Pointers inform, that on the 3th of last Month, about Two o'Clock in the Afternoon, there was one of the most violent Hurricanes ever known at Montmorillon, which had its Direction from West to East; it shook the Walls, uncovered the Roofs of Houses, and overthrew Chimnies and the Timber-Work of many Houses which were situated on the River Gardempe, and the Wind was so violent and boisterous, that it raised the Waves of the River 15 Feet high, so that one could have seen the bare Channel; this Hurricane plucked up many Trees by the Roots, and those which could resist its Fury, had their Branches all tore to Pieces.

The last Letters from Senegal mention, that a French Interpreter and Secretary to the King of Brack, had been poisoned by the Natives, for endeavouring to persuade that Prince to go to War with another Nation, in Alliance with Great-Britain.

Letters from Paris say, that a Duel has just been fought there, between an Exempt of the King's Body-Guards and a Musketeer, concerning a Mistress to whom each paid his Addressees. The former had the Consent of the Parents, the latter pretended to the good Wishes of the Girl. Both were killed, and both left dead on the Field of Battle.

ANNAPOLIS, March 17.

On Sunday Morning last died, in the Jail of this City, William Dupriest, who was under Confinement for having been concerned in counterfeiting the Eight Dollar Bills of Credit of this Province. 'Tis supposed he has been, for some Years, an eminent Artist in that Species of Villainy, as 'tis alledged he counterfeited the Paper Currency of Virginia and Carolina. —It is generally thought he took a Dose of Laudanum, as he slept from the Tuesday preceding his Death, to the Time above-mentioned.

* * * The Piece signed, CRAMBO, came too late to be inserted in this Week's GAZETTE.

Mrs. GREEN,

Please to insert the following Lines in your next Gazette, in Answer to the Verses to C. D. in No. 1173, and you will oblige, Your's, &c.

To * Fame, 'tis true, thy Name shall be consign'd, With all the Marks of thy corrupted Mind; Where Falsehood, Rancour, Fraud, and Av'rice dwell, Where Envy broods, and all within is Hell. Where Demons fierce, disturb the calm Repose, And Conscience preys with agonizing Woes. Proceed, vain Boaster! speed th' envenom'd Dart, Patch other's Labours with thy cobling Art: Strike quick the Man, with thy avenging Rod, Whose Oath is sacred, and who fears his God: Who soon discern'd the Soul-polluted Elf, That makes Religion center in Himself: With Rage malignant, urge th' intrepid Foe, And raze Church Rev'nues at a single Blow: Like curst + Herestratus, thy Worth proclaim, And fet the sacred Temple in a Flame.

But on the Ground supreme, with Caution tread, A Sage of Law has sometimes lost his Head. Events as fatal too—without a Trope, Have often happen'd from an Hempen Rope. Then wisely, doubt thy Knowledge to be such, That here's too little given, there too much. "A little Learning is a dangerous Thing, " Drink deep, or taste not the Pierian Spring." Some have for Pimps, and then for Poets past, Turn'd Lawyers next, and canting Rogues at last.

Too well he knows thee, to renounce the War, To fear thy Taunts, or dread a Frizzle's Scar. He dares thy Worst, with Scorn beholds thy Rage, The pert dull Ranting of thy nerve-less Page. Defy thy Rage! Yes, surely he defies The Rage of branded Fraud, that all despise. Attack the Honour that unveil'd your Wiles, Betray the Pique of disappointed Guiles! No useless Shields his upright Heart defend; No Darts like thine can ever make it bend. The blunt Shaft shall sink, e'er it verges there, And the dull His, but die away in Air. Had He, to've pleas'd thee, sacrific'd his Oath, He still had been the—REAL MAN OF WORTH!

But, say not, BALTIMORE commends thy Crimes, Or weighs Mens Merit by their jingling Rhymes: Strict Virtue oft, to others' Vice is blind, Suspicion dwells not in the noble Mind.

Then draw thy Pencil, stigmatize the Man, Whom Conscience governs, to oppose thy Plan; Who pays Obedience to his Country's Laws, And dares to vindicate her rightful Cause: His truest Lineaments, with Justice trace, The striking Contrast shall thyself disgrace! Virtues, like his, adorn a Public State, Whilst Worth, like thine, deserves—an + Haman's Fate!

* * * Whether there be Two different Goddesses, called "Fame, as some Authors contend, or only one Goddess, "sounding Two different Trumpets, it is certain, that "People distinguished for their Villainy, have as good a "Title to a Blast from the proper Trumpet, as those "who are most renowned for their Virtues, have from "the other; and have equal Reason to complain if it be "refused them. And, accordingly, the Names of the most "celebrated Profligates have been faithfully transmitted "down to Posterity. And, although the Person here un- "derstood, acted his Part in an obscure Corner of the "World; yet his Talents might have shone with Lustre "enough in the noblest Scene." SWIFT.

+ A Villain, who not being able to perpetuate his Name by virtuous Actions, set Fire to the Temple of Diana, at Ephesus. 1 Esder, Chap. 7.
