to The chief Merit with you, Gentlemen, 14 now to be a facred Love of Liberty, and of those generous Principles, which at first gave, and have fince secured Principles, which at his gave, and have fince fecured to this Nation, the great Charter of Freedom. I will yield to none of my Countrymen in this noble Zeal, which have always characterized Englishmen. I may appeal to my whole Conduct, both in and out of Parliament, for the Demonstration, that such Principles and the proceed in my Heart, and that I have finally recorded in my Heart, and that I have finally are deeply rooted in my Heart, and that I have fleath are deeply rooted in my Heart, anothar I have fleadily pursued the Interests of my Country, without Regard to the powerful Enemies I created, or the manifest Dangers in which I must thence necessarily be involved, and that I have fulfilled the Duties of a good Subject.

(1) The Two important Questions of Public Liberty, respecting General Warrants, and the Seizure of Patenty, respecting General Warrants, and the Seizure of Patenty. respecting General Warrants, and the Seizure of Paters, may perhaps, place me among those, who have deserred well of Mankind, by an undaunted Firmness, Perseverance, and Probity: These are the Virtues which your Ancestors never failed to exert in the same name and the World will see tional Caufe of Liberty, and the World will fee re-newed in their Descendants on every great Call of Freedom and our Country.

"The Nature and Dignity of the Truft, Gentlines, which I now folicit, strike me very forcibly. I fed the warmest Zeal for your Interests, and Affection for your Service. I am confcious how unequal my Abii. ties are, yet Fidelity and Integrity shall in some Meafure compensate that Deficiency, and I will endeavour, through Life, to merit the Continuance of your Acprobation, the most precious Reward to which I aspire.

If I am honoured with so near a Relation. I am honoured with fo near a Relation to you, it will be my Ambition to be useful, to dedicate myself to your Service, and to discharge with Spirit and Asfiduity, the various and important Duties of the dif-tinguished Station, in which I may be placed by the Favour of you, Gentlemen, the Livery of London. I must do Lord B— the Justice to say, that the Moment he heard the Subject of Pluralities would be disagreeable to the People, he superfeded his former Instructions, and resolved to provide for his Friend on the Civil List:—A Conduct, which one would think deserves the warmest Returns of public and private Gratitude.—Your Opposition, C. D. merits Thanks—We will not enquire into the Motives:—They will not bear the Light.—They wrong you, who think you his Enemy.—I leave then the Defence of this Branch of the legal Prerogative in your Hands:—In good Hands I leave it.

But lest those ugly Statutes, concerning Supremacy, should frighten you; I would hint to you, that some other ugly Consequences might attend your basely betraying your Trust, and covertly attacking those Rights you are sworn to defend.

To the PRINTERS of the MARYLAND GAZETTE. Year inferting the following Piece, which made its Appearance in a late English Paper, will oblige your humble A Constant Customer. THE Pragmatic Sanction, as it is called, or royal proclamation, or Law lately made in Spain, must, by all rational Men, be considered as extraordinary in Every Friend to the natural and focial Rights of Mankind, muit conceive the firongest Indignation at such tyrannical Proceedings towards a whole People; for, ad-mitting the Jesuits to be Atheists, Traitors, nay Devils incarnate, still they were, as a Community, one of the Members of that national Body Politic, and ought not to have been cut off from it, without being first proved so infectiously tainted, as to warrant, in Justice, ich an Amputation.

If a Sovereign can, by the Laws of God, Justice, or Right, dispose of any Body of his People, whom he retains, without affigning any other Reason, than his Will, upon secret Deliberations, and for Causes known the whole of his People, that he will not do the same by them? And, to tell them they must submit to this being done in Silence, under the Penalty of being treated as guilty of high Treason, and even at Will to abrogate all obstructive Laws for that Purpose, is surely exerting a Power in which no People can acquiesce, 'til every Sentiment of Justice, Right or Humanity becomes obliterated from their Minds.

The Almighty never lodged fuch a Power in the Hands of any created Being; his Divine Law, like his Attributes, being to do Justice and love Mercy; and no man Juitice can be warrantable that is not manifested to be right. The King of Spain might, with as much Propriety, order his Subjects to turn Mahometans, for Reasons that he reserves within his Breast—with sor-bidding them, under the Penalty of high Treason, to write, speak, or declaim on the Subject, and with a brogating all obstructive constitutional Laws for that Purpose, by his arbitrary Proclamation; or he might as well confiscate and punish every religious Order, or every civil Community on the like Pleas, and exactly the same Injunctions to the rest of his People concerning his

We all know the Constitution of Spain was originally Gothic, like our own, and we also know, that the prefent King's Father was preferred to fucceed to that Throne conditionally, for the Good of the People, and the entire Preservation of the Spanish Dominions. They had then an acknowledged Right of thinking for themfelves, but now they are told it belongs not to them to judge of, or interpret the Sovereign's Commands; which bfolutely reducing them to the Condition of the most abject of blaves.

These Jesuits have Fathers, Brothers, and Kinsmen of all Degrees, amongst all Ranks of the Spaniards, who are to require no Reasons for their Confiscation and Banishment, while all natural Affection is even demanded to be filently facrificed.—Think, Oh! my Countrymen, to what Men become subjected when their Liberties are loft. Learn to value your own, and teach your Children to do the fame, beyond Fortune or even Life. A FRIEND to OPEN JUSTICE. Life. F. Vide Magazine for May 1767.
