From the PUBLIC LEDGER of August 6. INTELLIGENCE EXTRAORDINARY.

THE Trial of a Noble Lord, on a Second Indictment, from the Mirror of Modern Truth and Purity, for the fame Crime, but in another Form; of Purity, for the same Crime, but in another Form; of which his Lordship was lately found not guilty, at Kingston, was brought on, last Thursday, at Guildford, when he was again acquitted; the conscientious Lady, choosing, as it is reported, to abandon the Cause of Public Virtue, through Motives of Private Interest, or apprehending, that a Repetition of her Stories, might produce a glittering Stroke of Justice from the Court.

From the PENNSYLVANIA CHRONICLE, No. 93. To Mr. JOHN CLAPHAM.

A S you call upon me to set you right, if you should omit any "material Part of a Conversation" on A omit any " material Part of a Conversation" on which Mr. Allen founds his Resentment against the which Mr. Allen founds his Refentment against the Printers which you call unjustifiable—to justify both Mr. Allen and myself in the Parts we have acted, I will fairly relate to you the Circumstances, which I am the better able to do from having written an Account to Mr. Allen, of every Thing that passed between me, yourself, and the Printers.—It is notorious in what a vile and infamous Manner Mr. Allen was abused in Gueral Parers of that the World street out Share not feveral Papers, so that the World eried out Shame, not feveral Papers, so that the World eried out Shame, not only on the Authors, but the Printers, and a Party of Country-Gentlemen, quite Strangers to Mr. Allen, were so offended at it, that you know they came in a Body, and declared that if you did not cease printing such scandalous Libels, they would recall their Subscription.—Mr. Allen came into the Province greatly feription.—Mr. Allen came into the Province greatly, recommended, lived one Year quite retired, and without giving any reasonable Cause of Offence to any Person, did the Duty of his Parish regularly, was generally liked then, and fill continues to be so in this Parish; liked then, and itil continues to be in this I aim, fo far from being mercenary, he expended his whole Year's Income upon the Glebe-House, and there is great Reason to believe from his Reception at first, at West-River, he would have met with but little Opposition in the Affair of Pluralities, had it not clashed with Private Views, the People being instamed by the ridiculous and absurd Stories propagated in the Papers.

It was Easter-Week before a serious Reply was sent to be the people was sent to be the people with light

It was Eafter-Week before a serious Reply was sent by his Party, having only skirmished before with light Arms, i. e. with Poetry, in all which Rencounters they were allowed to have infinitely the Advantage.—
I banded the Bysander's Compositions to the Press, and Mr. Green's Excuse for not publishing them that Week was, that it was Holiday-Week, and he could not get his Hands to work. The Beginning of the next the Papers were sent back to me with a Note, importing that they could not be published unless Two Passages were erased; the First was this——" In the Possession of above Three Thousand Pounds a Year amongst you, do you want to appropriate the 30 per Poll?" On which you, Mr. Clapham, observed, how can we prove that the D— Family have above 30001. a-Year in Places? To which it may be answered, how can you prove all the Crimes you have alledged against Mr. Allen? The second Passage objected to was this—" That for a Counsellor of State covertly to attack a Branch of the legal Prerogative was a flagrant Breach of Truit, abo. minable Ingratitude, not to fay wisful and corrupt Perjury."—These Two Passages were accordingly struck out, and the Piece remitted——It was again sent back to me with the Letter printed in the last Gazette, back to me with the Letter printed in the last Gazette, which, though signed by Mr. Green, he told me be only copied. This Letter begins thus—" When perfonal Invective is the Result of a long Dispute, we contend it as a Matter of Right, &c.—To which the By-flander answered, by appealing to the Public, whether he had in any one of his Compositions descended at that Time to personal Invective, or whether there is the least Reason of suspecting he would have done it, if not so grievously provoked—The above-mentioned Letter insisted on the Author's Name—Mr. Allen, tho the fupposed Author, had no right to give his Name, the Bystanders being professed; written in the Character of a Third Person; and he did not choose to involve a Friend; and he suspected, not without some Grounds, that his Name would have been immediately sacrificed, that his Name would have been immediately facrificed, or at least lain at the uncertain Mercy of Printers, totally devoted to the opposite Party.—At length an Indemnity was proposed by the Printer—I waited on Mr. Allen one Morning, when in Bed, and informed him of it—he desired me to give them any Security they thought necessary, and he would indemnify me—This he did by giving me a full Indemnity under his Hand, and you say yourself that I proposed to you to write what was necessary, and I would sign it—This you add, was not my Business—Whose Business was it then? Had you really wanted an Indemnity, and had it not been a mere Evation, you would have been glad of so fair an Offer as to draw it up in your own Terms, as strong and binding as you pleased. An Indemnity of fo fair an Offer as to draw it up in your own Terms, as strong and binding as you pleased. An Indemnity must be thought of little Consequence, if for the Security of the Printers you did not think it worth writing, especially as you say "your Friendship and Assaity to the Family make it a Duty incumbent on you to give them any Advice and Assistance in your Power."—You at length did engage the Printers should publish one Piece upon my Word; but there was a Note in that Piece which the Bystander says, notwithstanding your Inabilities as a Corrector, you did take upon you to correct. The Note ran thus—This and the Two fellowing Pieces were written, &c. you left out the Word fellowing and inserted other, thinking the former Word would bind you to print the rest.

"A Second, you say, accordingly came with a Note."

"A Second, you fay, accordingly came with a Note at the End "to be continued weekly" and was refused at the End "to be continued weekly" and was refused for the Reasons above affigued, and no Indemnity having been produced." The Reason why no Indemnity was produced you give yourself, that you would not give suffigued are only that I told you I thought of going to England in the Fall, but you add that I affared you I would clear myself of the Affair before I embarked. If you took my Word in one Case, why not in the other? I believe I have saved Money enough out of my scanty Income to answer any Damages the most partial Jury would give against Mr. Allen, after the Provocation he has received, and Twenty People in Town would have taken it off my Hands upon Mr. Town would have taken it off my Hands upon Mr.

Town would have taken it off my Hands upon Mir-Allen's Indennity.

Whether Mr. Allen did engage upon equal Terms may be collected from the following Particulars of feveral Conversations. In one of which you, Mr. Claptam, observed, that Mr. Allen was a Stranger—Mr. C. D. of an antient Family—that whatever Mr. Allen faid would not be believed, and would only serve to bring himself into Contempt—That Mrs. Green was under vast Obligations to the Dulany Family, as well as her late Husband—That they should incur the Cenfure of the Three Estates of the Province, and lose the Business of the Upper House if they printed Mr. Allen's Bufines of the Upper House if they printed Mr. Alleas Piece, and that the Family, considerable in Power and Connections, would never forgive the Printers, or Mr. Allea, whose Life they would make uneasy as long as he staid in the Province.

he staid in the Province.

Mr. Allen had great Reason' to be offended at the Suppression of the Fourth Letter of the Byfander—which was returned to me too late to get into the Press at any Rate. This was the Week before he went to Frederick-Town, and had this Piece been then published, in which it was evident the Opposition and Abuse aroke. from Private Confiderations, and partial Defigns, the Violence of the People against him would have been greatly mollified.—I first acquainted Mr. Allen of Mr. W. D's Intention of getting him out of the Living, removing me from the Free-School, and annexing both for the Renefit of one Mr. Renefer, a Virginia Clergy. moving me from the Free-School, and annexing ooth for the Benefit of one Mr. Baucher, a Virginia Clergy man. The Rev. Mr. L— informed me of it, I must ay in Confidence; but it was too important a Piece of Intelligence to keep from Mr. Allen, both on his Account and my own; for I knew I should be safe if Mr. Allen had Power and Insluence to keep the Living, and to be turned out of the School after. Nine Year's Serenteel and the same of the School after. Nine Year's Serenteel and Insluence of the School after. Nine Year's Serenteel and Insluence of the School after. Nine Year's Serenteel and Insluence of the School after. Nine Year's Serenteel and Insluence of the School after. Nine Year's Serenteel and Insluence of the School after. Nine Year's Serenteel and Insluence of the School after. Allen had Power and Influence to keep the Living, and to be turned out of the School after Nine Year's Service, to the best of my Ability, at a Minute's Warning, principally by the very Man who first engaged me, with the fairest Promises, to settle here, as by his Letter to me, dated March 26, 1759, would more fully appear, (which I shewed to you Mr. Clapham) would have been very hard, especially considering Mr. W. D. himself was at that Time Six Years in Arrears to me. Mr. L— has since wanted to retract the Paper given by me to Mr. Allen He told me the Relation was true, but my giving Mr. Allen a Narrative of the whole under my my giving Mr. Allen a Narrative of the whole under my Hand, was the worft Thing I could have done.—This Hand, was the worst Thing I could have done.—This Narrative was in the Byfiander that Mr. Clapham owns was resulted.

The Public have now a fair Opportunity of judging between us. If Mr. Allen was deceived, it was by me; but every Word of the above I declare to be true is the most solemn Manner, and I do consider that Mr. Clapham endeavoured to evade the printing the Picco from Time to Time, without a sat Denial, to save the Credit of his Friends, and of the Press. As my Attachment to Mr. Allen first arose from a Regard to my own Safety, so it continued from a Sense of the Justin own Safety, so it continued from a Sense of the Julia of his Cause, and Detestation of the hard Usage he has every Way very undeservedly received—An Attachment which I dare say I shall never repent.
