turning one Author, at least, from the Error of his "Brain!"

What Contempt have they expressed of his Satirical Trifles, in their Review of September 1764, will appear from the following Article:

HOW vain are our best Endeavours to persuade "Stupidity to lay down the Pen! The Quill still "passes from Goose to Goose, and sticks more closely "to its Second, than to its First Possessor. In the Ca"talogue of our Review for March last, under the Ar"ticle of A Poem on the Peace, we advised this Scribbler,
 "with all imaginable Civility, not to print these Trifles,
 "which he had then threatened; but he returns us
 "with Hatred for our Good-Will, and at the End "of this Collection, has mauled us in a most severe and "biting Epigram, the Wit of which, consists in call"ing us old and impotent. We know not why the "Author should call these Trifles satirical, unless it "be on Account of some low and contemptible Abuse "of the Clergy. But we say no more, as both the "Poetry and the Poet appear to be equally below the "Attention of the Public."

Should a very clumsy Fellow boast of the wonderful Leaps he took at Rhodes, his Word would hardly be taken as a Proof of his Agility; but, when his Audience are furnished, with an exact Measure of his Leaps there, and they appear to have been very heavy ones, they must be very tender, indeed, if they do not add the Epithet impudent, whenever they speak of the Baggadocchio.

How far Mr. Goddard can be justified, I submit to the Candor of the Public; but, it appears to me, he has violated the Laws of the Press, and produced a flagrant Instance of his Partiality, by printing, in his Chronicle, the most infamous Abuse that ever disgraced a News-Paper, without the Author's Name, in Answer to a Piece, signed by the Subscriber.—Is this fair and candid? Is this the Equality that ought to be observed between contending Parties? Shall one be intrenched up to the Nose in Mr. Goddard's and the other entirely exposed? What must be the Consequence of a Paper, thus conducted? Must it not expose the most unblemished Characters, to the Attacks of Ruffians, under the Cover of a Dark-Lantern, and even deprive them of all Means of Redress or Reparation? And does such a Paper deserve the Character of Utility, or to be stigmatized as a Nuisance to Society?

I am sorry a Justification of my Conduct, has obliged me to trespass so much on the Public, having been unexpectedly, and very innocently, drawn into this Controversy, the only one in which I ever had the least Concern.
