Extract of a Letter from Edinburgh, June 27.

"At Canon-Mills, near this City, where it is the Custom of the Millers Servants to watch the Mills nightly by Turns, one of them was lately married to a handsome young Girl. Two or Three Nights after the Marriage, it happening to be his Turn to watch, he requested one of his Companions to perform that Duty for him, and he would repay him another Time buty for him, and he would repay him another Time in Kind, as it was hard to be flut out from a young Wife so soon. His Friend very readily consented, and home went the Bridegroom, happy in the Conceit of agreeably surprising his Spouse with his unexpected Company.—His Bride, sensible her Husband was on Watch, resolved, it seems, not to spend the Night alone, and had, at that Instant, a young Gentlemen. and had, at that Instant, a young Gentleman in Bed with her. It is the Custom, at that Place, to keep the House Door open, when the Husband is out, that he may have free Access at all Times.—She being awake at his Entrance, screamed out violently that she was like to die of a Colic, and that nothing could cure her but a Dram of Holland Gin. He did not pay great Attention to her at first, but pulled off his Cloaths, and was stepping into Bed, when she redoubled her Cries, that she should die, if he did not immediately run for the Gin. He, in Vain recommended to her some Whiskey, that was in the House; but nothing but the Gin would ease her; having cured her before, she said.——Thus alarmed with her Entreaties, he huddled on his Clearly hastile, and see out for the be huddled on his Cloaths hastily, and ran out for the Dram. On procuring it, he threw down the Price, and set out on his Return with Expedition; but he was called back by the honest Publican, and acquainted that he had thrown down Six Shillings instead of Three Pence. The Miller would not believe him, telling him he was not worth fo much, and could not be convinced on being offered back the Money, 'til putting his Hand again in his Pocket, he found a Purfe, containing Twenty-Seven Guineas, and fome loofe Silver; and upon farther Inspection, a Pair of hand-fome new Breeches, and a Gold Watch.—What passed between him and his Spouse, upon his Return, we are not informed; but, it is said, he considers himare not informed; but, it is faid, he confiders him-felf sufficiently recompenced for the Infidelity of his Bride, and wishes she may have the Colic, attended with the same Circumstances, every Night. The Story has occasioned much Pleasantry here, every one ask-ing his Neighbour, if he has lost his Breeches?" ruly 6. The Petition from the County of Surry to his Majesty, is faid to be already florated by second his Majesty, is said to be already signed by 1000 Free-holders; and great Care is taken that none but Freeholders of that County be permitted to fign it.

The following is a Copy of a Letter written by a great Person to a Minister, on the Day of that Minister's Marriage.

" My Lord Duke of -"I cannot fuffer this Day to go over without wishing you a long and uninterrupted Joy and Happiness; affuring you that I am the most affectionate among your Friends.

The Dispatches from Bengal, by the Queen, Captain Stainforth, bring Advice, that a solid and advantage ous Treaty has been at last concluded between Sujah-Dowla and the English Company, by which our Possessina and Trade in that Country are less in sulfactivity and Peace. The Deputies from Calcutta met with the Nabob at Banares, on the Frontiers of his own Territories. The Conferences were carried on with the greatest Sincerity and good Faith. The Deputies represented to him (the Nabob) how necessary it was for the Preservation of Harmony between the two Nations, that every Cause of Jealousy should be your Friends. it was for the Preservation of Harmony between the two Nations, that every Cause of Jealousy should be removed. They told him that the late Augmentation of his Forces, in Time of prosound Peace, and his Attempts to discipline them in the European Manner, seemed to indicate Designs, which justly gave the Alarm to the Presidency of Calcutta; that therefore they insisted on a Reduction of those Forces, as the best Means to satisfy them as to the Uprightness of his Interprison. That we were willing to consent to his best Means to safisfy them as to the Uprightness of his Intentions. That we were willing to consent to his maintaining such an Army, as was requisite for the Honour and Security of his Government at Home; and as to all Attacks from a foreign Enemy, he would always find the English saithful and effectual Allies to sly to his Assistance.

Swish Dowla, although he pleaded his Treaty with Lord Clive; which held him no Limitation with Regard to the Number of his Forces, seemed at last sensible of the fusiness of their Reasoning, and actually agreed to reduce his Forces to the Number they proposed, which was 33,000 Men in all, 13,000 of which only to be on the Footing of Seapoys, the rest Cavalry and the common Rabble of Foot, after the Indian Manner.

Manner.

After fighting the Treaty, Sujah-Dowla went to make his Submillions to the King at Iliabad, where he was graciously received, and the Deputies and he parted in the greatest Cordiality. Thus the Storm which seemed to threaten Bengal, is now entirely blown over, and public Tranquillity fixed on a furer Basis than ever, as we have now aftertained a Right to question sujah-Dowla upon the smallest Increase of his Army, or any other Operation, which may seem holdile towards us and we have Residents at his Court to give the most early Information.

the most early Information.

The happy Effects of this Negociation must also be fell over all India, and discourage all Attempts from perty Powers against our Enterest. We have further the Sanisfaction to learn, that a Treaty was just on the Point of being concluded with Tonnagee, Chief of the Morattas, very advantageous to the Company, and likely to fecure perfect Tranquillity in India for many

A Letter from Mr. Wilkel to Mr. John Charchill, Brother of the celibrated Mr. Charles Churchill, on Occasion of the supposed Vacancy for the City of Westminster. [Copy.]

Kings. Bench Prison, Thursday Evening, July 6.
I beg the Favour of you, my dear Sir, to return my best Thanks to the Friends of Liberty in Westminster, who have so handsomly offered me their Service on the present Vacancy for that City. I wish you to on the present Vacancy for that City. I wish you to be quite explicit on the Occasion, and to declare in my Name, that I think it my Duty to decline the Honour intended me. I am now as much a legal Member of the House of Commons as our Speaker himself. The only difference I can find out is, I represent the first County in England, he a small Borough in Lincolnshire. I am a Knight of the Shire, he is a simple Burges: At this Time I am actually supporting, as far I can, the Right of Representation of my worthy Con-Rituents, and of every Elector in the Island, which is violated in my pretended Expulsion. I will pursue with unwearied Zeal so great a Cause. I hold myself still the Collegue of Mr. Serjeant Glynn, because we were both choien by a Majority of the Freeholders of the County of Middlefex. I am besides determined not to vacate my Seat in Parliament, and therefore I cannot be in the Capacity of receiving such obliging Marks of Regard from our Westminster Friends, whom I much esteem, but cannot represent. I have calculated I much esteem, but cannot represent: I have taken mv Refolution which you know is always very decifived I will never fit in Parliament but by the Favour and free Choice of the Freeholders of Middlefex. No po-litical Changes, nor any Confiderations whatever, shall induce me to quit the particular Service of my present worthy Constituents. They have under the most try-ing Circumstances supported me with unparallelled Firmness and Generosity. I am theirs for Life from every Principle of Honour and Gratitude. Believe Your mest affectionate, and obliged humble Servant

It is faid, that Mr. Wilkes Intends to present a Petition against Col. Luttrell's taking his Seat in the House of Commons, at the Opening of the next Session of Parilament. of Parliament.

Great Interest is making by the Court Party to prevent, if possible, any Member of the Bill of Rights from being returned for Westminster.

We are assured, that since the late unhappy Dissen-tions between England and her Colonies have taken Place, the Entries in a certain Government Office have failen short no less a Sum than One Hundred Thousand Pounds a Year. Surely the Deficiency of so large a Sum in the Balance of our Trade, must affect our do-mestic Commerce in a very sensible Degree.

Some Letters from Stockholm mention, that the French Interest, which lately carried every Thing. in the Senate, is now much upon the Decline.

It is faid a very spirited Remonstrance will soon tread the Heels of a no less humble Petition, should no Redress of Grievances be soon obtained from that Quar-

Yesterday Sir F. B. D. offered to lay a Bet of a Thousand Guineas to a Hundred, at a Coffee-House at the West-End of the Jown, that there would be a Change in the Ministry before a Month was at an End.

The Prospect from some late Occurrences of a speedy Change in the Ministry, fill the Friends of a certain popular Gentleman with the warmest Expectations of his Enlargement before the Expiration of his Sentence.

The Resolutions of the House of Assembly of Virginia, and of the Meeting after the House was desolved, give room to believe some active Measures will be taken by Government to suppress the Spirit of the People there, and that some Ships will be ordered out for that Purpose.

The Senate liath suppressed, within the Domaine of the Republic, 73 Convents, and forbidden the Bishops

A remarkable Anecdote is related as true, which feems to flow that the Influence of a certain unpopular Nobleman is upon the Decline, even where it would be least expected.—A superb Picture of the said Noblebe least expected.—A superb Picture of the said Nobleman, by his Countryman Mr. Ramsay, which used formerly to grace the Apartments of a great Personage, having lately disappeared, a Gentleman observing it, took Occasion to ask what was become of his Lordship's Portrait? To which it was replied, that the Picture in Question had been taken down by special Order, some Time, and was laid aside among some other old Lumber in the Cellar.
