MR. SPEAKER,

Sitting in this House, I have been Witness of many strange, many shameful Transactions; but, since I could call myself a Member of the British Senate, never were my Ears shocked with such an abominable Proposal, as that which now disgraces this Assembly.

While the Objects of your impotent Malice have only acted according to the Dictates of Conscience, and in Obedience to their Oath.—You will punish them, because they would not, for the Purposes of your Tyranny, betray their Trust and be guilty of Perjury.

The Instructions of your Constituents you should be always ready to obey. But you have inverted the Maxim of the Gospel, and made the Servant greater than the Master.

Injuries received from Men of your Stamp? How can you imagine, that Britons will endure an Act of Tyranny, as alarming as any practised by the Despot of France? Louis the well-bloated craves the Acts of his Parliaments; and our beloved House of Commons craves the legal Proceedings of our Courts of Records.

The Consequence is natural. After having assumed an arbitrary Dominion over Truth and Justice, you issue Orders, Warrants, and Proclamations, against every Opponent, and send Prisoners to your Bastile all those who have the Virtue and Courage to defend the expiring Freedom of their Country.
