A PROCLAMATION

For diffolving the present Parliament, and declaring the calling of another.

HEREAS we have thought fit, by and with the advice of our privy coun-cil, to diffolve this present parliament, which now stands prorogued to Tuef-day the fifteenth day of November enext: We do, for that end, publish this our royal pro-clamation; and do hereby dissolve the faid parliament accordingly. And the lords spiritual and temporal, and the knights, citizens, and burgesses, and the commissioners for shires and burges, of the house of com-mons, are discharged from the meeting, and attendance on Tuesday the said fifteenth day of November next. And we being desirous and resolved, as soon as may be, to meet our people, and to have their advice in parliament, do hereby make known to all our loving subjects, And do hereby further declare, That, with the advice of our privy council, we have, this day, given order to our chancellor of Great Britain, to illue our writs, in due form, for calling a new parliament; which writs are to-bear teste on Saturday the first day of October next, and to be returnable on Tuesday the twenty-ninth day of November following.

Given at our court at St. James's, the thirtieth day of September, one thousand seven hundred and feventy-four, in the fourteenth year of our reign.

September 27. LONDON,

Yesterday the lord-mayor, the two sheriffs, aldermen Wilkes and Sawbridge, and a number of the Free-holders of Middlesex, met at the Mile-End assemblyroom, in order to nominate proper persons to represent the said county in the ensuing parliament. The first business was to determine on the different arricles that the candidates to be put in nomination should subscribe, which were to the following purport: That, if chosen, they fhould endeavour to obtain a bill for the fhortening the duration of parliaments; a bill for the exclu-fion of piacemen and penfioners; a bill for the more equal representation of the people; and but to repeal the four late acts respecting the Americans.

The theriffs asked the freeholders if they were willing their candidates should be bound to the aforesaid articles; when about fix persons held up their hands against the question. This being decided in the affirmative, John Wilkes, Esq; was nominated as a candidate, and all hands held up for him, except five or fix. The theriffs next put up ferjeant Glynn, who had every hand held up in his favour. Upon Mr. Sawbridge's motion the two candidates were jointly put up, which was received with the greatest applaule. Ladly the therin's enquired if any other gentleman was to be proposed as a candidate; whereupon one gentleman was mentioned, but no person seconded the motion.

The nomination being thus concluded, Mr. Wilkes affured the freeholders he was ready to bind himself by the terms they proposed, as he agreed to every one of them. He also ked the freeholders for that farther mark of their approbation, and begged leave to assure them every part of his conduct should be uniformly a would continue that confidence, as he was determined through life to purfue the same great end. This speech was received with applause,

The following is a copy of the engagement figned by John Wilker and John Glynn, Esquires.

We [John: Wilkes and John Glynn] do folemnly promife and engage ourselves to our constituents, if we have the honour of being chosen the representatives in parliament of the county of Middlesex, that we will endeavour, to the utmost of our owner to restore and defend the excellent form of government modelled and established at the revolution, and to promote acts of legiflature, for shortening the duration of parliaments, for excluding placemen and pensioners from the house of -commons; for a more fair and equal representation of the people; for vindicating the injured rights of the freeholders of this county, and the whole body of electors of this united kingdom; and an act for the repeal of the four late and respecting America, the Quebec act, establishing popery, and the fistened French Canadian lays in that extend poper to the Boston porract, the act for altering the charter of the province of Massachusetts Bay, and the act for the trial in Europe of persons accused of remining lastenessing America, beof persons accused of eximinal offences in America, being fully perfunded that the passing of such acts will be-of the utmost importance for the security of our excellent constitution, and the restoration of the rights and liberties of our fellow-subjects in America.

It is to be hoped that the dectors in every county, city, and town, in Great-Britain, will infin upon the like engagement from those they chuse.

Orders, it is faid, are dispatched to the commander in chief in North America, to cause any in of the deputies to the congress to be intercepted on their way, and by that means to frustrate the intention, by not permitting it to be general.

It is to be hoped that the people, at the next general election, will have an eye to those who have promoted the pulling of favoral unpopular and reconstitutional bills: The promoters of the Quehec bill ought not to be forgotten, who have denied English subjects a trial by jury, and encouraged the infamous practice of lettres de cachet, by refusing to grant the liberty of the babeas corpus act to persons confined by an act of power. And lattly, those ought to be had in everlasting remembrance lattly, those ought to be had in everlaiting remembrance who endeavoured to destroy the freedom of election, by rendering of no effect the votes of the electors of the county of Middlesex.

It is now generally known that Lord Mansfield's visit to the French court is intirely a political one. Some particular matters were entrusted to him, which could not be committed to the care of any other person could not be committed to the care of any other person. September 29. No more troops will be fent from Ireland to America, but from Great Britain. This regulation has been occasioned by the great desertion of the Irish regiments under general Gage.

This being Michaelmas day, the right hon, the lord This being Michaelmas day, the right hon, the lord mayor, attended by the aldermen, theriffs, recorder, and other city officers, met at Guildhall, where the two theriffs mounted the hustings, and proceeded to the election of a lord-mayor. The feveral aldermen below having been separately put up, the lord-mayor was then nominated, when the shew of hands appeared in favour of his lordship and Mr. alderman Wilkes; but a poll was demanded in behalf of Sir James Esdale, and Mr. Alderman Kennet, which began immediately. Alderman Kennet, which began immediately.

Oliver 1. At the close of the poll for lord-mayor, this day the number was as follows: Lord-Mayor, Alderman Wilkes, -

Sir J. Eidale,

Alderman Kennet, The sudden dissolution of parliament has given rife to a great variety of conjectures, among which are the following: That it is principally occasioned by the present critical situation of assairs in North-America, which renders the advice of a new parliament necessary. Others more confidently affert, that the many spirited resolutions entered into by the several candidates for seats in the new parliament, hastened the dissolution of the old, as the ministry did not know to what lengths fuch proceedings might be carried, and what trouble fuch spirited exertions in favour of the patriotic party might cause them.—Some say the accounts lately re. ceived from the courts of Sweden, Vienna, France, and Spain, have been of fo perplexing a nature, that a new parliament was become absolutely necessary, to advise and assist his majesty in the present alarming state of af-

It is now expected that a general change of the miniftry will take place before the meeting of parliament.

It is faid fome advices of the most important nature were received on Tuesday from America.

General Gage hath absolute orders from the court to prevent the meetings of the congress, and to seize all iuch people as attempt to assemble.

A report prevails, that general Gage is killed, and that two regiments of his troops had revolted.

It was yesterday reported, that advice had been received of there having been some commotions at Bostonia and the commotions of the army have descreted. ton, and that a great number of the army have deserted, and that some mischief had been done.

We hear administration intends to be before-hand with the patriots, by bringing in a bill, next session of parliament to make a final settlement of American affairs, if the colonies furnish them with any pretence to fave their honour.

It is affured that government is much deceived in the conduct of the Americans; their cool, deliberate, and prudent measures, having confounded their foes, and gained them many friends.

Letters from Constantinople of August 17th Cay That the joy which the people expressed at the writ accounts of peace between Russia and the Porte is entirely at an end, fince hearing on what disadvantageous terms for the latter that peace is concluded. The people now daily affemble in vast numbers before the door of the Divan, and the houses of the ministers of flate, begging that they would not fuffer such a peace to be concluded, but push the war on, let the consequence be what it will. This alarms the grand figuior and his ministers, as they fear it may end in a general insurrection; in consequence of which the guard at the doors of the Seraglio are doubled, and nobody admitted to the anglesce of the grand signior has the cheinlies do the audience of the grand fignior but the chevalier de St. Priest, the rench Ambassador. Every one is impatient to see how these affairs will end; for the Divan as for peace, but the people outrageously against it." The idea of fending out another cargo of ta to Boston with a military force, is most contemptibly ridiculous, and is likely to serve no other end than that of making the exporters more laughed at, if possible, than they are at present. Good heavens! is it reasonable that we should condemn the people to drink sea whether. they will or not? If we have injudiciously, overstocked ourselves with a commodity, can reasoning justice warrant us in forcing a sale? Does not common sense rather say we should stay till they send sale? The exporters in this instance may, in the strictest sense, be termed hawkers and pedlers, who, if their accidental customers are not in immediate want of their wares, must be content to take them home again, and rather, by a civil demeaner, insure their future favours, than by an infolent imposition lose them; which is exactly similar to a parent, or governor, standing over a child who has no appetite, and with rod in hand insisting on its eating its bread and butter. Indeed, papa, I can't eat my bread and butter. You shall eat your bread and butter, or mark the consequence, you shall be whinned. Away, away with such ridiculous filly must be content to take them home again, and rather, be whipped. Away, sway with fuch ridiculous filly

It is not the people of Boston only, who are resolved not to pay the tax upon tea, but the common cause of all the American colonies; and it is not improbable but that the offensive step now going to be taken may induce the Americans to apply to France and Spain, and open a commerce with them; and the consequences of which may produce a war with England.

A constant reader fave that all persons the Spain.

A constant reader says, that all persons who sayour the dragooning the Bostonians, indicate as little sound policy as they do of humanity; what a sayage disposition must these betray, who can be gratified with nothing less than the sayout his sayout his fall. thing less than the unnatural butchery of their fellowfubjects, by recommending the horrors of the fword; fuch would, no doubt, have been joyful spectators of the French and Irish massacres, and have chuckled at the carnage.

In answer to all and every the inconsistent persecuting political bigots who may propose hostile violence against the Americans, let such be told that the Americans, let such be told that the Americans, let such be told that the Americans against the Americans and a such being below the such as a ricans are convinced of their indubitable right of equal and universal freedom with the rest of their fellow-subjects, and that they are not represented but misrepre-

BOSTON, November 21, 1774.

At a meeting of the inhabitants of this town by adjournment, November 7th, the committee appointed for that purpose, made the following report, which was accepted by the

HEREAS fundry regiments of his majefty's troops are, contrary to law, and to the great annoyance and detriment of his majefty's good subjects of this province, now stationed in the town of Boston, in a time of profound peace, for the avowed purpofes of in a time of profound peace, for the avowed purpoles of carrying into execution fundry acts of the British parliament, tending to enslave the people, and to subvert the constitution of the province, which it is our duty to protest against upon all occasions; yet, nevertheles, we, the inhabitants of the town of Boston, in town meeting legally assembled, taking into serious consideration, the distressed circumstances of this metropolis, and being anxious still to use our best endeavours to preserve that anxious still to use our best endeavours to preserve that decency and order for which this fown has ever been remarkable, relying on the justice of our cause, and confiding in the united endeavours of the colonies, the wildom of the continental congress, the justice and cle-mency of our fovereign, and the smiles of divine providence, that our grievances will fhortly be redressed, and our unalienable and precious rights, liberties and privileges be restored and secured to us upon a just and permanent basis. Therefore we recommend,

"That as his excellency the governor has assured the town, that he will do all in his power to secure the peace and good order of the town;"

That the town on their part will exert their best endeavours to effect the same desirable purpose; and to this end would augment the fown watch, and it is recommended to the selectmen of the town, that they increase the watch to the number of twelve men in each watch-house, for the security and safety of the inhabi-tants, and that they be directed to patrole the streets of the town for the whole night the ensuing season."

"And it is earnestly desired that his majesty's justices." of the peace, and other peace officers would exert their authority for the observance of the laws, and preservation of peace and order, and that when they hear of any disturbance, they would not wait for a complaint, but call on the inhabitants, who, will at all times be ready in assisting to disperse such persons, or in bringing of fenders of what rank or order soever to justice.

" As in our present situation it is incumbent upon us particularly to attend to the peace and good order of the town, it is therefore earnestly recommended to the inhabitants to do allein their power to prevent or suppress any quarrels or disturbances. And it is ferioully recommended to all masters of families that they restrain their children and servants from going abroad after nine o'clock in the evening, unless on necessary

" And it is further recommended to the felecimen of the town, to injoin upon all retailers and taverners of the town, that they firstly conform to the laws of the province, relating to disorder y persons." W. Cooper, Town-Clerk.
