THURSDAY, NOVEMBER 15, 1781.

PHILADELPHIA, Nov. 6.

Extract of a letter from general Washington, dated Head-quarters near York, October 27, 1781.

SIR, I DO myself the honour to enclose to your Excellency, copies of returns of prisoners, artillery, arms, ordnance, and other stores, surrendered by the enemy in their posts of York and Gloucester, on the 19th instant, which were completed at the time of my last dispatches, and but this moment handed to me: a draught of the same posts, with the plan of attack and defence, is also transmitted; and twenty-four standards, taken at the same time, are ready to be laid before you.

My present dispatches being important, I have committed to the care of colonel Humphry, one of my aids de camp, whom, for his attention, fidelity and good services, I beg leave to recommend to your Excellency.
