

On Monday last arrived at New York, in the ship Watson, captain Hayden, from Amsterdam, a number of redemptives, was from the pleading accounts given since the peace, by the returned merchants, and our former advantages over theirs in the way of good living, have been induced to look for a comfortable residence amongst us.

Extract of a letter from Cooterill, Ireland, June 7.
"A poor woman near this town gathered a quantity of toad or paddock stools, which she took for mushrooms; after dressing them she gave them to her children to eat, and partook of them herself likewise; three of the children died the day following, and the mother died this day. A labouring man, who was then in the house, took a part of the same poisonous food, and it is thought cannot survive."

Sept. 13. The following is a brief account of the unfortunate disaster which befell the ship Faithful Steward, Commodity McCauland, master, from Londonderry, bound to this port, taken from a gentleman who was passenger on board:

On the 9th day of July last, said vessel sailed from Londonderry, having on board 249 passengers of respectability, who had with them property to a very considerable amount. They had had a favourable passage, during which nothing of moment occurred, the greatest harmony having prevailed among them, until the night of Thursday the 1st instant, September, when at the hour of ten o'clock it was thought advisable to try for anchorage, and to their great surprise found themselves in four fathoms water, though at dark there was not the faintest appearance of land. The consternation and astonishment which then prevailed, is easier conceived than described, every exertion was used to run the vessel off shore, but in a few minutes she struck the ground, when it was found necessary to cut away her masts, &c. all of which went overboard. On the morning of the 2d, we found ourselves on Mohobaback, near Indian river, about four leagues to the southward of Cape Henlopen. Every effort was made to save the unhappy sufferers who remained in the wreck during the night, although distant from the shore only about 100 yards. The same evening she beat to pieces.

The sea running extremely high, the boats were with difficulty disengaged from the wreck, but before they could be got man-d they drifted ashore, therefore all relief was cut off, except by swimming or getting ashore on pieces of the wreck, and we are sorry to add, that of the above, only 63 persons were saved, among which were the master, his mates, and 10 seamen. During the course of the day the inhabitants came down to the beach in numbers, and used every means in their power to relieve the unfortunate people on board, among whom were about 100 women and children, of whom only 7 women were saved. Several persons who escaped from the wreck are since dead from the wounds they received, and others are miserably bruised. With great pleasure we learn, that several humane and public spirited gentlemen of this city are about raising a subscription, for the relief of the unhappy people who were saved from the wreck of the Faithful Steward; and there can be no doubt of their meeting with great success from the benevolent inhabitants, who have never been backward in affording assistance to the distressed.
