PHILADELPHIA, November 7.

A gentleman lately arrived from Dunkirk (says a Charleston paper) relates the following event-He was walking out of town, and saw at a great distance a vast number of people all on foot. Amidst the croud he could distinguish some persons of superior rank; when they drew near he asked the occasion of this procession, and was informed that the young man of quality who walked first, had been bit by a mad dog; the consequence of which was so violent that they could not get him into a carriage, though it was a confiderable journey he had made to bathe in the sea. Amidst the distortions and ravings of his distemper, might be discerned a most beautiful face, and fine figure. He was attended by several footmen; some of whom held him with cords, fastened in such a manner that he had liberty to walk, yet not to hurt himself; the others followed weeping, with an old governor almost as mad as his pupil; but the situation of the father and mother who made up this unhappy suite, was beyond all description. They attempted to go with their son to the sea, but the lady, from violent agitations of hope and fear, fainted and was carried away as dead. The father perfifted in seeing the operation of bathing performed several times, for several days, but without success. They were reduced at length to the cruel necessity (from the torments which the young man suffered) to call a confultation of physicians on the most gentle manner of putting him to death. Bleeding was agreed on, and accordingly executed. This affair must have been terrible to the most indifferent parents; unhappily these were distinguished for a most sincere paternal affection for their unfortunate son.

We learn that the stationers of this city have lately examined carefully into the manufacture of wafers, and have introduced the making of them here, of an appearance and quality equal to any imported. They now sell them, to a good living profit we hope, to to 20 per cent. lower than they used to be sold-pink, azure, laylock and peagreen, for Belles and Beaux, and common red for the more serious uses of men of business and public offices. It is hoped every enemy to the stamp act will shake off the imposition upon all letters and sealed writings, which we have heretofore paid by purchasing the article of wafers of foreign countries. It is supposed the charges and duties of importing wafers from abroad, are equal to 30 per cent. and wheat, the raw material from which they are made, is our great staple, and lower than in the European towns. Who then will hesitate to confirm this little manufacture by the uniform consumption of the home made article!

RICHMOND, November 8. From the ROYAL DOMINICA GAZETTE.

It has long been my fentiment, that the most common gifts of Providence are the most useful, falutary, and worthy of estimation. That this opinion has not been ill founded, I will, at present, apply to only one instance, of which I can speak with great considence.

The common stinging nettle, apparently as useless and troublesome a plant as any that has been stigmatised with the name of weeds, is one of the most efficacious medicines we have in the vegetable kingdom: in the form of a strong decoction, or infusion, taken in the quantity of a pint in a day, is a most valuable strengthener of general or partial relaxation. In that of a weak decoction or infusion, it proves an admirable alternative and deobstruent, in impurities of the blood, and in obstructions of the vessels. And in that of expressed juices, taken by spoonfuls, as the exigency of the case requires, is the most powerful styptic in internal bleedings known. Externally applied, as fermentation or poultice it amazingly discusses inflammation, and resolves swellings. In the common fore throat, thus applied, and internally, as a gargle, great dependence may safely be put in this common plant. I have been witness to its great efficacy therein in many instan-

Extract of a letter from a gentleman in Georgia, to his friend in Frederick-town, dat the 22d of September

"We are, at present, in a state of anxiety and sufpence, because of the uncertainty of the termination of the treaty which is now about to be held. The Indians, (Creeks) we are informed, are extremely obstinate, and will insist hard to hold the land that was once ceded to us by a part of the nation, and the commissioners will. I suppose, make a demand of another cession of land, as a compensation for the injury we have fustained by the incursions they have made this last year.

"A gentleman of my acquaintance, from Augusta, who was at my house a sew days past, informed me, that official letters had arrived, from congress, to the executive, instructing them to offer such terms as they

If this can be depended on, which I believe it may, there is a great probability that a war will take place, which we should be well able to support, for there never were greater crops in any coun-A British paper of Sept. 5 mentions, "That the try, than have been made in Georgia this season. It Bellona, cruifing with three other Swedish frigates in is supposed corn will sell at one shilling per bushel, and we have large stocks of cattle: but still it would, in some measure, injure this country, for the present; but the large quantity of good land we should obtain, would more than compensate for the fatigue and expence of the war."
