Variation Chart or Map Of all the Northern Hemisphere,

ON A PLAN ENTIRELY NEW,

OMPREHENDING all the empires, kingdoms and states, in North-America, Europe, Asia and part of Africa, together with the islands, oceans, leas, &c. thereunto belonging; by which the magnetic variation is determined for any part thereof, for any time past, present, or to come, with an explanation of the same, or the variation and latitude being truly given, the longitude is also easily determined within less than a quarter of a degree, either by sea or land, which is corrected from the observations of the celebrated captain Cooke, deceased, and others of the most able geographers and navigators during several voyages round the world.

The work being already encouraged by a very respectable number of the first characters (whose names are proposed to be published at a future day) is at present fit for engraving; and as the principles on which this system is founded, have been already approved ofby some of the most learned mathematicians of the present age, both in America and Europe, the patronage of all lovers of science is hereby respectfully solicited with a hope that this performance will give universal fatisfaction.

CONDITIONS.

I. This work will be engraved on copperplate ornamented, printed on good paper and painted. II. The price to subscribers will be THREE DOL-LARS for each fingle copy. III. Booksellers and others who subscribe for fix copies will be entitled to the usual allowance. IV. Notwithstanding some of his friends (towards defraying the expence) have paid one third down, yet subscribers may retain all their money until the maps are sent home, which will be immediately after the V. For the satisfaction of those who have advanced part of the money, security will be lodged in the hands of some indifferent persons of known fidelity for the faithful performance, if it should be by any individual thought necessary. VI. The scale will be proportioned to the number of fubscribers.

J: CHURCHMAN returns his cordial thanks to all those who so liberally furnished him during the late war with materials and other encouragement relating to his map of the peninfula between Chesapeake and Delaware bays, including the said bays, the shores adjacent, the maratime parts of West-Jersey, Pennsylvania, Maryland, Virginia, and all the Delaware state; and he flatters himself (although it was performed under many disadvantages) that this small specimen of his first publication in the line of his protession will operate in the public mind, in favour of the present undertaking.

The following is an extract from the report published in the journal of the house of representatives of the Congress of the United States of America, for 1789, page 21 22.

MONDAY, APRIL 20. Mr. Tucker reported from the committee to whom was referred the petition of John Churchman, agreed to a report thereupon which he delivered in at the elerk's table, where the same was twice read and debated by clauses.

The first clause in the words following, to wit a That the committee have conferred with Mr. Churchor man, and find that he has made many calculations, which tend to establish his position, that there are two magnetic points which give direction to the needle; that upon this doctrine he has endeavoured to of ascertain, from a given latitude, and a given variation, what must be the longitude of the place; and " having applied his principles to many instances in Cooke's voyages, has found the refult to correspond with confiderable accuracy with the real was, as far as they could be determined by the reckoning of the " ship; that the object to which Mr. Churchman's " labours are directed, is confessedly of very high imes portance, and his ideas on the subject appear to be turned, and said the court had set him free, and that " ingenious: that with a view of applying them to or practice, he has contrived a map and a globe, whereof by to shew the angles which are made by the interse section of the real and the magnetic meridians in difce ferent parts of the earth: that he is also engaged in constructing tables for determining the longitude at se sea upon magnetic principles: That the committee are of opinion that such efforts deserve encouragement, and that a law should pass to secure to Mr. stopped by any person, and shew as a discharge from "Churchman, for a term of years, the exclusive perumy fervice, as several of them have done the same." niary emolument to be derived from the publication Whoever will apprehend the above-said negro, and "of these several inventions," was again read, and on the question being put thereupon, agreed to by the house.—On motion—Ordered, That a bill or bills be brought in, making a general provision for securing to authors and inventors the exclusive right of their respective writings and discoveries. * * Subscriptions are received by the presters
