The following resolves were entered into by the managers of the lottery on the 10th of April, 1790,

RESOLVED, That the drawing of the Annapolis Church Lottery commence on the seventeenth day of May next, and that it continue from day to day till said drawing he completed.

RESOLVED, That the money arising from faid lottery be expended in the finishing of the building, so as to render it useful to the citizens as speedily as posfible, and that no part of it be applied to the payment of arrearages heretofore incurred by the trustees appointed to build and complete faid church.

To the CITIZENS of ANNAPO-LIS the above SCHEME is peculiarly addressed.

THEY have for a confiderable period experienced, and frequently lamented, the want of a suitable place for the celebration of divine service. It is true, that the condition of the times, for some years past, has been the cause of their remaining so long in this situation. But it is hoped, (and surely it cannot be an idle hope!) that the citizens of Annapolis will now, when it is in their power, exert themselves to forward the scheme proposed, and give such assistance to the managers, as will enable them to effect an undertaking of the highest and most interesting nature. The humiliating idea of depending always upon favour, and often upon accident, for a place and opportunity to return public thanks to the Great Author of our being, must affect a mind of the least sensibility.

If it be possible to difregard our own happiness, still the rifing generation call loudly upon us to exert our utmost endeavours on this occasion. Their young minds ought, at an early period, to be impressed with a knowledge of, and a sense of gratitude to, their Maker, and the solemnity of the place ever greatly contributes to fix and strengthen the impression. The influence of this impression extends not only to the more important concern of futurity, but exerts itself in the welfare and peace of society, and the happiness of private life, fo that, if we wish to make them useful abroad, and happy at home, this must be the foundation. Every other is sandy, and temporary.

Merely to rescue so noble an edifice from tumbling into ruin, would excite the charity of a liberal mind. But when it is confidered that this edifice is intended for the first of all purposes, the worship of HIM who made, preserves, and gives us all, gratitude puts in her claim, and makes that a religious obligation, which, in the first case, would only be an act of common gene-

Upon a view of the scheme, those who adventure must observe, that they not only contribute to accomplish the great purpose for which it is offered to the public, but that the chances are so calculated, as to give room for a probable hope (as far as matters of this kind will warrant it) of promoting their private interest. This is not mentioned as an inducement to the citizens to become adventurers, for views of another nature will assuredly influence them, to use every possible exertion to carry into effect a defign, so interesting to themselves and their posterity.
