June 7, 1791.

Messrs. GREEN. IN order fully to disclose the wicked and premeditated intent of Elijah Gaither, in his attack on me, be pleased to publish in your paper the deposition of John G. Hamilton, which is as follows:

REZIN HAMMOND.

MARYLAND, ff. N the second day of June, one thousand seven hundred and ninety-one, came before me, the subscriber, one of the judges of the general court, IOHN G. HAMILTON, and made oath, that on or about the thirteenth of May last he was in company and had conversation with Elijah Gaither, son of Edward, and that, in the course of the said conversation. the said Gaither informed this deponent as follows:-That he had had a round with colonel Rezin Hammond, of Anne-Arundel county; that the faid Hammond had injured his reputation, and that, in confequence thereof, he, the said Gaither, for several months before, had premeditated and determined to kill him, and that he came down from New-York for that purpose, that having discovered in Baltimore-town that colonel Hammond had brought fuits against him, he immediately hired horses, provided himself with three braces of pistols, all which he loaded, or caused to be loaded, with three bullets and two buck fhot each, and a gutt, which was loaded with three bullets and a quantity of thot, after which (viz. on Easter Monday before day-light) he, the faid Gaither, started with his servant from Elk-Ridge for colonel Hammond's place of refidence with a full determination to kill him, and arrived at the farm just after day-break; that he placed and concealed himself in a certain field belonging to the said farm, where it was usual for colonel Hammond to pais every morning, and fo concealed, together with his said servant, waited for some time in expectation of the faid Hammond coming along, during which time he, the said Gaither, and his servant, watched for him alternately; that some time after sunrife he, the said Gaither, finding that the said Hammond did not pass through the said field as he expected, fent his fervant, up to the house to inquire if the said Hammond was at home, and if possible to discover HAT there will be a petition preferred before and give him information whether the faid Hammond the next general assembly of Maryland for a intended to come out, and which way he intended to Arundel county to crect an inspection house, for to- was still in bed or not; that his servant returned and the name of Howard's Point, where there formerly bed, and no body with him; whereupon the faid Gaither formed the design of going up to the house, enter ing Mr. Hammond's room (with which the faid Gaither was well acquainted) and affastinating him wnife in bed, but that he changed this refolution from an apprehension that he might be discovered before he could of informing his creditors, that he intends to carry his views into execution; that he remained in his -first fituation until about eight o'clock, when he and hle fervant rode up to the house with the thin and pif-

of Mr. Hammond's negrues into the house to inform Mr. Hammond that he wanted to speak with him that Mr. Hammond came into the yard and invite you will shoot mes that Gauther then promised w his honour he would not, and that he made use of the promise as an artifice to get Mr. Hammond in power; Ithat Mr. Hammond, then went within fever steps or thereabouts of him, and Gaither ordered him to flops gave his gun to his fergant, and alighted from his horse, at which time two of his pistols fell from his belt a that he thereupon offered Mr. Hammond a m tol, and infifted upon fighting, which Mr. Hamme declined, because there were no witnesses by but of fered to fight at any subsequent day if he was bent on it a that Gaither would not defer it, and faid Mr. Hammond thould either fight him that moment, or h would kill him ; that, on hearing a noise behind him. proceeding from the approach of a negro or regro he, the faid Gaither, turned in order to keep the fair negro or negroes off, and that then colonel Ham run from him towards the house; that he turned about and before he had run many steps, he the faid Gaither levelled one of his pistols at him, and fired the same, and was aftonished that he missed him, as he never took a more cool and deliberate aim in his life; that as foon as he found he had missed him, he drew another pistol. and before Mr. Hammond had run above fifteen steps he fired that also at him, and thought he saw the wad. ding burning on his back; that thereupon, although Mr. Hammond did not fall, he the faid Gaither concluded he had killed him; but finding that he condnued to run until he got into the house, and supposing that Mr. Hammond intended to get a gun, and return with it, he the faid Gaither took his gun from the fervant, and got behind the pales of the yard, and le velled his gun over the pales, with his finger upon the trigger ready to fire as foon as Mr. Hammond thould come out; that Mr. Hammond did come out of the house with a gun in his hand, and fired at him, and struck him in the left hand; that thereupon, under an apprehension that Mr. Hammond's negroes were coming to attack him, one of which had a gun, and fearing Mr Hammond would also get another gun, he mounted his horse, and as he was mounting the said negro fired and struck him on the neck and lest shoulder; that then the said Gaither went off; that the said Gaither, at the time of the above conversation, further declared, that he was not yet fatisfied, and would always go prepared for the faid Hammond, and would kill him wherever he met him, and expressed his regret and complained that he was unfortunate in not having killied him before; that this deponent endervoured to dissuade the said Gaither from the further profecution of his revenge, but that fuch diffusions, instead of having any falutary effect upon him, only seemed to make him the more determined; and that the said Gaither further declared, that he could reconcile it to his conscience to hire affassins to take away the life of the faid Hammond; and that the debt for which Mr. Hammond had brought fuit against him was a just debt, but that he never would pay it, and would kill him, or any one elfe, if he ever afked for it. Sworn before me ou this 2d June, 1791. True Copy.
